POULTRY BOYCOTT IN [illegible]ENCE, SAY S[illegible]NG HOUSES

Farmers Are Included in Charges at They Are Asking Too High a Price.

CANADIANS CAN'T AFFORD THE FIGURES DEMANDED

But Raisers of Birds Are Independent, Saying that the Americans Are Willing to Buy Them.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 28.—There is every evidence of a boycott against many of the largest poultry shipping houses and farmers in the eastern part of the dominion by the wholesalers in both the east and the west.

The wholesalers take the view that they are being charged too high prices for the festive birds and in consequence of last year's prices, which proved too high for many housekeepers, and caused light buying and large stocks left over, they say unless all offers of poultry are on a lower basis than the present ones, they will not attempt to buy except on advance cash orders from retailers.

In answer to this the farmers, especially those nearest the international boundary line, say that the Canadian wholesalers can either take their poultry or leave them, just which ever suits them as the American buyers are in the market and will pay the price and as long as they get their prices they will be satisfied.

Wholesalers say that although their whole Canadian trade is in jeopardy they can do no different than let the poultry go as Canadians can not pay the prices and the birds will be a loss to handle.

Turkeys are now offered there at 21 cents to 22 cents but they must come down to 20 cents before wholesalers will handle them.

ASSOCIATION WILL APPEAL DECISION IN SPORLE CASE

Directors of Exhibition Association Decide Upon Various Matters of Importance.

After receiving legal advice from City Solicitor Bowen, the executive committee of the Edmonton Exhibition association has decided to enter an appeal against the decision of Judge Beck in the Sporle case.

Manager Stark was authorized to take a trip to Chicago and Toronto and other eastern points to represent the association before the board of appeal of the American Trotting association in the Sutherland futurity case. He will also arrange for attractions for next year, obtain terms for the handling of the Pari-Mutuel machines on the western circuit from Mr. Spencer of Brooklyn, N. Y., get sketches for hangers and posters, and look after other matters of importance in connection with the spring show and summer exhibition. He left last night, and will be gone about three weeks.

Next year's supply of hay, oats and straw has been arranged for, the hay being purchased from J. J. Richards of Red Deer, and the straw and oats from Lawrence Rye of North Edmonton.

$350,000 CHEQUE IS SENT TO FARMERS' ELEVATOR COMPANY

By Reason of the Amount and Its Important Connection With a Great Movement, the Slip of Paper Promises to Become Historic in the Annals of Alberta.

In the office of the provincial secretary yesterday there was signed a cheque which, both by reason of the amount and of the important connection it has with a great movement, bids fair to become historic. The amount of the cheque was $350,000, and is drawn in favor of the lately created "Alberta Farmers' Co-operative Elevator Company, Limited."

This sum was loaned by the Alberta government to the above company on the security of a chattel mortgage on 50 elevators which have been either erected or bought throughout the province since the passing of the bill a year ago. This company, which is now at last in a position to realize the dream of years, is a creation of the provincial government and was formed in response to the requests of the organized farmers of Alberta for relief from the exactions of corporate interests controlling, in a large measure, the grain trade and other industries. Its purpose is to create a company of farmers as well directed and as strong financially as any existing corporation in the grain trade. According to the act there is now no business affecting the farmers of this province in which farmers may not lawfully and effectively engage on a co-operative basis.

The cheque which was issued yesterday in accordance with the provisions of the act in cash $5 per cent. of the cost of the act is based on the section which says in part: "The government will advance of each elevator bought or built by the company. The government is to say as to whether or not a certain elevator shall be bought, what shall be paid for it, whether one shall be built at a certain place or what shall be its capacity or equipment. The directors of the company decide these matters and the government will put up the money."

At last the money has been actually put up. As the cheque represents only 85 per cent. of the value of the 50 elevators owned by the United Farmers, it will be seen that the total value of the elevators mortgaged to the Alberta government will amount to close on $500,000.

The new company has built 44 of their elevators of the best concrete and steel. The remaining six were purchased from companies already in the field.

The work of constructing 44 elevators, all brand new, was not always an easy job, owing to the opposition of large corporate interests. One lumber firm doing business in Alberta, refused to supply the farmers with a single foot of lumber, as a result of which action it was necessary to secure the requisite lumber from all over the country.

Mr. Hunt, inspector of legal offices, said that the cheque was mailed to Calgary last night, and should be in the hands of the president today.

ALDERMEN TO CONSIDER GAS AGREEMENT THIS AFTERNOON

Adjourned Meeting Called for Four O'Clock—If Terms Meet With Approval of Council It Is Probable That An Early Date Will Be Named for Vote on Proposition.

An adjourned meeting of the city council has been called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock to consider the gas agreement as approved by the public works committee, the city commissioners, the city solicitor and the solicitor for the Pelican Oil and Gas company, Limited.

At a special meeting of the council called some weeks ago to consider the whole gas question it was decided that only the Pelican agreement should be submitted to the people, this company being the only one with gas in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of the city at the present time.

If the terms of the agreement meet with the approval of the council this afternoon it is probable that a date may be named when a vote of the burgesses will be taken on two propositions: First, "Are you in favor of buying gas from the Pelican company in accordance with the terms of the agreement, which gives this company a 20 year franchise to the extent of the full capacity of a 16-inch pipe?" Second, "Are you in favor of the city exploring for gas as recommended in the Clapp-Huntley report, and raising on a money by-law a sum sufficient to cover the exploration work necessary on the territory now reserved for the city in the vicinity of the Belly river anticlines?"

DISCRIMINATION ALLEGED AGAINST WHEAT OF THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 28.—Alleging discrimination in rates of wheat from the prairie provinces through Vancouver for southern shipment the board of trade will take up with the Dominion railway commission a complaint of the grain merchants of this city, which claim that by reason of preferential rates, which the C.P.R. has made with the Pacific Coast Steamship company the California market for wheat is practically shut off from Alberta and Saskatchewan. Since the new tariff law became effective in the United States, enquiries regarding the possibility of getting Canadian hard wheat for California mills, have been received here. It is understood the C.P.R. is about to issue a freight tariff to San Francisco in conjunction with the Pacific Coast Steamship company, making a rate of 40 cents per 100 pounds on wheat from Alberta. The rate is divided into 22 cents per 100 rail and from Alberta points to Vancouver and 17 1-2 cents to San Francisco.

It is said this rate will not be of much service as there are a large number of mills at different points which the Pacific Coast people do not serve. The board of trade will draw to the attention of the railway commission what is known as "Tariff W1990" in which the C.P.R. makes a rate for export to South America and Mexico but not to the United tsates. An effort will be made to have this rate apply to California.

BORDEN WON'T PREDICT REGARDING FUTURE NEGOTIATIONS ON TARIFF

Washington, D.C., Nov. 28.—To an inquiry as to the possibility of negotiations between the United States and Canada regarding changes in the Canadian tariff or the renewal of efforts to secure a reciprocity agreement, Premier Borden, of Canada, who is supposed here today on his way to Ottawa, said that he had not much purpose in mind of his present visit to Washington. He said he did not care to make any prediction as to what was likely to happen in advance of a formal consideration of the subject by the Canadian government.

Mr. Borden paid a visit to President Wilson, at the White House, in company with Secretary Bryan, who called for hi mat the British embassy. Ho has been spending a month's vacation at Hot Springs.

Secretary Bryan will entertain him at dinner tonight and Secretary Franklin Lane, an old personal friend, gave a luncheon.

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 28.—Right Hon. R. L. Borden, the Canadian premier, left Hot Springs with Mrs. Borden last night for Washington where he will take train tonight for New York.

Concerning a report that the passage of the New American tariff had resulted in western Canada exerting pressure upon the Canadian government to reduce the high cost of living and that Mr. Borden would suggest to Mr. Wilson further tariff concessions to Canada, the effect of which would be free trade in natural products, the premier did not seem inclined to deny the report in full but said there was nothing to give basis for it.

WARM EXCHANGES BETWEEN COUNSEL AND RATE EXPERT

Point at Issue is the Correctness of Method Employed to Arrive at Conclusions

FIGURES HELD USELESS TO MAKE COMPARISONS

"You Are Trying to Solve Something That is Unsolvable," is the Retort Made by Eminent Lawyer.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 28.—The critical examination of J. H. Muller the American freight expert, by F. H. Chrysler, K. C., counsel for the C.P.R., was continued in the western freight rates case this morning.

The point still at issue between Mr. Chrysler and the rate expert was the correctness or otherwise of the method adopted by Mr. Muller in allocating the freight and passenger expenses incurred by the C.P.R.

Mr. Chrysler maintained that the basic principle of Mr. Muller's theory was all wrong and that he had arrived at an entirely wrong set of conclusions. He maintained that in connection with such items as switching and yard expenditures it was quite impossible to mark an accurate division of cost of handling as between the passenger and freight services.

At times the interchange between the eminent counsel and the rate expert became fairly warm, although neither one nor the other became excited.

At one point, when Mr. Chrysler had reiterated his views that Mr. Muller's figures were useless for purposes of comparison, Mr. Muller said:

"If you can propose a better method I am willing to adopt it."

"You are trying to solve something that is unsolvable, I maintain that actual results cannot be arrived at by your reply," was the purport of Mr. Chrysler's retort.

"That is but the expression of a personal opinion, I maintain that my methods are sound and that they do serve some god purpose. They may not be perfect, but I know of no better. That is all I can say," replied Mr. Muller.

Then the examination pursued the general even tenor of its way, its meaning in the mind of a layman being obscured by a maze of railway stock phrases and legal technicalities.

TWO MONTHS IN PRISON FOR ANDREW SLIMINSKY

Attempted to Rob the Caledonian Store, But Was Interrupted by Detectives.

Andrew Sliminsky, who tried to make such a sensational escape on Monday last, was sentenced to two months in prison with hard labor.

It will be remembered that during the night of Monday 24 he was seen in a lane at the rear of the Caledonian store, off Namayo avenue, by Detectives Shaw and Moore. The man signed to be breaking into the store, but as soon as he saw the detectives he began to run. Some shots were fired after the man to scare him, and while running away he dropped a blanket, which was identified this morning in the police court.

Sliminsky stoutly maintained his innocence throughout the hearing of the case.

"PUNCH'S VIEW OF MEXICAN CRISIS."

This reproduced cartoon gives an idea of the opinion of London's famous weekly on the present controversy between the United States and Mexico. Under the cartoon the following lines were printed: Mexican President: "What have we here?" American Eagle: "That, sir, is another strongly worded remonstrance." Mexican President: "No use for it. I had hoped it was going to be an ultimatum."

BRITAIN AND AMERICA IN NO CLASH AS REGARDS MEXICO

What Has Been Referred to as an Estrangement of Relations is Characterized as Having Been Merely a Misapprehension As to the Purposes of Each Country.

Washington, Nov. 28—There has been no development in the Mexican situation, official despatches received being of a routine character.

The attitude of the Washington government continues to be one of patient waiting and so far as is known, no steps are in contemplation for the immediate future.

Sir William Tyrrell, private secretary to Sir Ed.ard Grey, the British foreign secretary, said good-bye to President Wilson yesterday. He will leave Washington on Sunday to return to London.

During his visit here Sir William has seen the president and secretary Bryan frequently, and has been on cordial terms with high government officials constantly. He has maintained silence about his presence here, declaring only that he came in no official capacity.

On account of the illness of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, Sir William, volunteered his services as a means of communication, participating in an exchange of views on the Mexican situation.

The view held by those familiar with the nature of the exchanges between Great Britain and the United States, is that the relations between the two governments have been continuously friendly, and that which has been referred to as an estrangement of relations is characterized by them as merely having been a misrepresentation of the purposes of each country during the Kaleidescope changes which affairs in Mexico recently were undergoing. The two governments, it may be said, now are working in close harmony and unison.

Sir William departs, it is said greatly impressed with the consideration he received from both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

The recovery of Ambassador Spring Rice has progressed so far that he is now in virtual charge of affairs of the embassy and will soon be able, it is expected, to take up active work.

MONSTER MOTOR STREET SPRINKLER ARRIVES TO KEEP THE CITY CLEAN

A new motor street sprinkler and flusher is being unloaded and tested out today by the superintendent of the street department. This new machine is one of the latest old country models having been shipped from Great Britain. It is a monster in size, weighing something over seven tons.

After it has been tested out at a local garage, it is the intention of Dan Alton to take the new sprinkler over to McKernan's lake and use it to put on a fresh surface of ice. When seen this morning Alton was not so sure that his scheme would work out. "Its a monster," he stated with a shake of his head, "and I'm afraid the ice on the lake won't carry it when it is filled with water."

"It has no connection whatever with the left hand sweeper delivered some months ago," said Mr. Alton, "and should be of very great assistance to the department next season. It can be used to sprinkle the streets during the day and to flush them at night."

HOCKEY FEVER HAS SEIZED MANY OF EMPLOYEES OF CITY DEPARTMENTS

The hockey fever has seized the employees of a number of departments in the city hall to such an extent that they have arranged for the first game of the season. The moving spirit among the sports appears to be Chief Clerk Wilson of the building inspector's department.

He has lined up a team from the floors below, arranged for the hockey ice at the high level rink tomorrow afternoon, and challenged the boys of the engineering department to come down from their perch on the top floor and meet a team from below on an even footing.

"This is simply a beginning," says Manager Wilson, "as we expect to show some class when we get down to good hard practice. There is enough good material in the civic building to make up a number of first class hockey teams and all we need is to get them out on the ice and interested early in the season."

BOULDER STRIKES TRAIN

Nelson, B.C., Nov. 28.—As the Great Northern train from Spokane approached the Mountain station a huge boulder rolled down the mountain side, striking the train between the engine and the first car, where it stopped. The steps for the whole length of the train were stripped off as the rock was passed.

MOTHER SEES SON PUT TO DEATH BY SOLDIER NEPHEW

Family and Blood Ties Do Not Avail to Halt Vengeance of the Mexican Constitutionalists.

CIVILIAN EXECUTED ON ORDER OF HIS COUSIN

State As Well As Federal Office Holders Are Slain When the Rebels Capture the City of Victoria.

Mexico City, Nov. 28.—Blood and family ties did not avail to halt the vengence of constitutionalists when federal office holders fell into their hands at the capture of Victoria, capital of Tamaulipas.

State as well as federal officers were executed without quarter.

Among those killed swas a young civilian, cousin of Emiliano Caballeros, who is the leader of the rebels at Victoria and one of the chief lieutenants of Venustiano Carranza.

The young civilian was condemned to die because he had helped the federal troops to defend the city.

The young man's mother who is an aunt of the rebel officer went on her knees and begged for the life of her son. Caballero's reply was to have his cousin brought from the prison and stood in front of a firing squad of revolutionists who shot him down before his mother's eyes.

Details of the capture of Victoria, which occurred a week ago reached Mexico City today.

General Antonio Rabago, the federal commander, upon evacuating the city proceeded with his troop to the southwest in the expectation of making a connection with the federal column commanded by General Rubio Navarrete was was trying to get to the city's relief.

The rebels, however sent out a flying squadron to meet General Navarrete's troops and check their progress.

The fate of both General Navarrete's command and that of General Rabago is still unknown here.

Mexican Federals Routed

Washington, Nov. 28.—Despatches to the constitutionalist headquarters here report an engagement at La Cruz on the Linarez branch of the Mexican national railway between Monterey and Tampico, in which the constitutionalist's general, Antonio Villare, is said to have routed the federal troops under Rubio Navarette and to have taken their trains.

The same despatches declared the Constitutionalist Generals Aguilar and Salazar were moving on Tampico with about 7,000 men.

Escapes To Battleship.

Vera Cruz, Nov. 28—Following arrest by the Mexican authorities on the charge of having assisted in the recent escape to the United States battleship Rhode Island, of Evaristo and Daniel Madero, J. F. Woodyard, Jr., prominent member of the American colony at Vera Cruz, and formerly of Monterey, is under the protection of the American flag aboard the battleship Michigan. Captain Edward Ward, commanding the Michigan, is the senior officer of the squadron now here.

Woodyard was informed yesterday that a warrant had been issued for his arrest, and committed to the fortress of San Juan Ulua. He immediately went to the American consulate, where he was informed by the consul, Mr. Canada, that he was unable to give him assistance. Woodyard then boarded the battleship. His presence there was a profound secret until today, when a proposal was made to put him on board the steamer Esperanza for Havana. To this the agents of the line objected when they learned the circumstances of the case, saying that they were not willing to face the peril of complications with the Mexican authorities.

A military train with 150 soldiers aboard, was dynamited yesterday at El Salado, 60 miles south of Saltillo. The casualties are not known. The rebels in that region appear to be continuing their concentration.

ASQUITH'S HOME RULE SPEECH MUCH ANNOYS THE UNIONISTS

They Had Hoped That It Would Offer Proposals for a Definite Settlement—No Real Developments Are Expected Now to Happen Until Opening of Parliament.

Dublin, Nov. 28—The Unionist party carried the war into the enemy's territory today when Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Irish Unionists, and others arrived to deliver here a series of speeches on home rule.

In reply to the deputation which welcomed him Mr. Bonar Law reiterated that the Unionists opposed the whole idea of separation of the United Kingdom and insisted that the government must seek the sanction of the people before attempting to make the change.

During a speech in the afternoon before the Unionist association, Mr. Law said Premier Asquith's speech of the preceding day at Leeds seemed to him a complete acceptance of the orders of John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, for "full steam ahead," and if that was so, the difficulties of the Unionist party were gone.

Suffragettes attempted to reach Mr. Law as he was driving afterwards to the residence of Lord Iveagh, and they bombarded him with pamphlets. Mrs. Sheehy Skiffington and Mrs. Connery, the leaders in Dublin, were arrested and charged with obstructing the police.

The suffragettes wanted to protest against the exclusion of women from Mr. Law's meetings in Dublin, and his refusal to receive a deputation of the women. They also intended to ask him to state whether the Unionist party was for or against giving women the vote.

Speech Much Criticized.

London, Nov. 28—This morning's newspapers' criticism of Premier Asquith's speech, go over pretty much the same old ground, according to the taste or fancy of the editorial writer.

The ablest writers on both sides, in fact, indicate that they are absolutely starved for something new to say, the real truth being that the home rule position is almost exactly as when the conference was first mooted.

The opinion is growing among politicians of the quiet sort who do not go to big meetings, and are not impressed by partisans' writings, that no real developments will happen until parliament opens.

What is likely to bring discord into the liberal inner ranks is the growth of naval expenditure. Even the liberal Daily News this morning is dissatisfied with Premier Asquith on this score.

"It may be true," said the News, "that other countries are wasting their substance as recklessly as ourselves, but that is no consolation to us who know our own navy estimates have doubled in 20 years, and our expenditure in armaments has increased twice as fast as the population or the nation's earnings. Of course, it is the duty of the government to see that the National defences are adequate, but the liberals feel that the navy estimates represent a standard of strength beyond all precedent and reason. They do not feel that everything has been done which might have been done to check the rivalry in waste between governments."

The Daily News also points out that the unanimous resolution passed at the National Liberal Federation shows that this disinclination on naval expenditure is not a fad of a section of the party, but is common to all liberals.

There were no grounds whatever, he declared, for the demand by the conservatives for a general election. It could not be fought on the single issue of home rule, and could not result in the settlement of the question. So far as he was concerned, he would not advise any such course. The government was determined to give home rule to Ireland and was not going to be frightened or intimidated by menaces of civil war. The prime minister also disappointed those who had been expecting some pronouncement from him indicating the prospect of a decrease of the vast expenditure for armaments, concerning which much dissatisfaction has been expressed among the liberals recently.

Situation is Lamented.

He and every one of his colleagues in the government, he said, lamented as much as any man in the assembly the huge diversion all-over the world of national wealth into non-productive channels. A ministry which, out of carelessness or levity in a burst of vainglorious rivalry added as much as a pound to the expenditure for that purpose was committing a national crime. They could not plead guilty to that reproach. They were charged with a solemn trust, and in its performance it was their duty to maintain a vigilant watch on what the rest of the nations were doing and be constantly ready. He thought the problem could be met by the co-operation of the great powers of the world, brought about by the demands of the people.

Speech Bitterly Criticized.

President Asquith's speech at Leeds dismissing the general election talk and indicating the government's firm pursuit of its policy towards Ireland is said to greatly annoy the unionists, who hoped that proposals for a definite settlement would have been offered.

The Daily Graphic says the only possible inference is that the extremists in the cabinet have beaten the moderates. The Morning Post bitterly criticises the speech, and likens it to the third empire minister who in 1870 boasted that he entered into the Prussian war with a light heart. Asquith's guilt, says the Post is deeper in view of the fact that they are not concerned with a foreign state, but with a domestic strife.

The Daily Cronicle thinks that Asquith has done good if his speech will dispell the false air of iresolution which the unionists sought to cast around the cabinet.

The Daily Express under a heading "declaring for civil war" says that the "full speed ahead to civil war" motto of Asquith's speech made clear the government's intention to use the British troops to shoot loyal Ulstermen.

Editorially the Express summarizes Asquith's speech by parapraising the familiar but impolite expression "to hell with Ulster," and says that Asquith's oscillations towards statesmanship are rescented. He probably guesses the dishonest place his name will occupy in the pages of British history, blood-stained by fratricidal strife but the fear of being ousted from office by Redmond weights heavier with him.

The fear of incurring the responsibility of civil war noted in his speech is contemptible in its character, and the revelation is more disastrous to national events than any ever delivered by a premier. Armed rebellion in Ulster with its mutiny, riots, chaos and confusion will be the immediate results of forcing the home rule bill through.

It will spell the government's downfall and blast ministerial reputations despite the reckless braggadocio of the premier, who apologizes for the sea power expenditure and congratulates himself on the wholesale creation of salaried officials at the expense of the British fleets.

Called "Tragic Trifling."

The Daily Mail heading its editorial "Tragic Trifling" says it is clear that a portion of the speech was used as threats against Ulster, against the police, and against the army. An obscure portion mentioned that it is possible negotiations might be started and in the vaguest terms, is was hinted that certain steps might be taken towards a settlement provided there is no surrender of principle but the phrases used are so tortuous, unintelligable and undefinite that none can say what is meant. It is playing with the country to offer such phrases as composed the speech. Asquith had nothing to offer but a politician's speech. He is tragically trifling while deliberately running the ship full steam ahead upon the rocks.

The Telegraph says the speech certainly does not contribute to the appeasement of the existing bitterness. Asquith's bold language about the states power to ensure obedience does for the time being, but he will speak differently if the occasion arises. The speech does not throw any light but the emphatic reiteration of a general position hardens the tone of the controversy and makes a solution more distant. If the government seeks to throw home rule on Ulster, there will be civil war and if a general election is held they will have the support of all the unionists.

The Times says the speech will be read with profound disappointment, "except by the blindest partisans. It is almost a reaction from the promise he made a month ago. Practically we have seen any chance for conciliation set back with no likelihood of peace in sight. The speech was a meaningless avowal of the intention not to advise an election may be appropriate, but it is little related to the present events, and circumstances may soon compel Asquith to appeal to the country for despite Asquith's resolute tone none know better than he, that the existing bill has not the slightest chance. It is all but dead. In the meantime Bonar Law speaks at Dublin today."

What the Premier Said.

Leeds, Nov. 28—Premier Asquith's speech yesterday at the meeting of the National Liberal Federation, which was eagerly awaited because it was expected to throw light on the question as to how far the negotiations for a settlement of home rule by agreement had been successful, disappointed those who were sanguine of a peaceful issue.

"I should be deceiving myself," he said, "if I said that I saw at this moment a prospect of agreement. But I feel confident that those who say time has been or is being wasted."

The prime minister declared that there was no foundation for the statement that on this or any other matter the cabinet was divided which the conservative press had been proclaiming for the last few days. With regard to a possible settlement by consent, he held it should be carried on beyond the reach of electoral or parliamentary vicissitudes; otherwise the Irish question would continue to be the football of party politics, to the infinite injury of both Ireland and the United Kingdom as a whole.

It was in this spirit, said Mr. Asquith, that he took upon himself to invite, not a conference of party leaders, but a free and unprecluded interchange of views and suggestions. He had no reason to despair regarding the acceptance of the invitation by the leaders of the opposition. The government was not going to make either on its own initiative or on the suggestion of others any surrender of principle, but it had not closed any door on a reasonable way to peace.

CANDIDATES ADDRESS ELECTORS AT NORTH EDMONTON MEETING

New Face Appears in the Ranks in the Person of Miss Moore, Who Speaks for "Woman's Intuition"—Few New Thoughts Promulgated for Dissection by Electorate.

TONIGHT'S MEETING.

A meeting of ratepayers will be held in the Arcade theatre tonight to listen to the claims for election as presented by the different candidates.

There was another good crowd out to hear the candidates for municipal honors air their views last night at the new North Edmonton fire hall. The speeches, with a few exceptions, were practically the same as those delivered upon previous occasions.

W. J. McNamara was the first speaker, and among other statements he said that, while he did not favor removing the pumping plant from its present site, if it were necessary to place the intake pipe further up the river to prevent contamination, he would be quite willing that it should be done. He again spent considerable time discussing the Kleinwort matter, and accused the mayor of negligence in failure to secure their signatures to the first contract.

Mayor Short, in his remarks, explained the Kleinwort deal to the evident satisfaction of his supporters, and pointed out that by means of it some $5,000,000 were assured for next year's municipal work. He pointed out the great need which exists for the organization of some of the civic departments, the present condition of which had hampered the work of the past year.

Aldermanic Candidates.

A. B. Campbell said he was in favor of extending the intake pipe two or three miles up the river and leaving the pumping in its present situation. So far as the gas was concerned, Mr. Campbell opinioned that any man has a right to invest his money wherever he sees fit. It was his money and he had a right to do what he saw fit with it; at the same time he thought we could well afford to wait for a while before we gave away a franchise. The street lighting might well be extended a little more rapidly.

Dr. A. J. Campbell advocated very strongly the existence of a pure and plentiful water supply, as well as better streets and sewers for the northern and eastern sections of the city. An emergency hospital should be established in North Edmonton.

Joseph Clarke expressed his strong opposition to the granting of a franchise to the Pelican Gas company. He also stated in round terms his opposition to the present civic administration.

John Cook said he was in favor of a fair share of improvements being accorded to every part of the city, and believed in the most rigid economy consistent with efficiency. He believed that wherever possible all civic appointments should be given to citizens of Edmonton, and promotions made according to merit. The city should hold all franchises and he was opposed to any action being taken in the gas matter at present. Regarding the question of an electric commission, he said that he was willing to adopt it if carried on a plebiscite; but he pointed out that we have now the machinery in force to accomplish practically the same end as is aimed at by the new proposition. The several departments could be arranged in groups and placed specifically under the direction of different commissioners, and he showed that such an arrangement would be infinitely better than the system now in vogue.

R. B. Douglas said the rapid growth of the business of the city made it incumbent upon the electors to select men for the aldermanic board, who were experienced in the transaction of business. He favored the removal of the intake pipe and the establishment of a high pressure system for the more efficient fighting of fires. Regarding the elective form of commission government, he thought as it would take at least two years before we could get in force, we cannot afford to wait that long. Something should be done at once to ensure an economical method of administration.

Ex-Alderman Gowan said he was of opinion that the system of changing the whole cost of improvements against the contiguous property is unfair. He would endeavor to have the old system of charging five per cent. against the city restored. We can very well afford to wait for a few years before taking up the gas question.

S. H. Smith said the only promise he had to offer was that he would do his best to give the city a business administration. So far as his interest in the Pelican Gas company was concerned, Mr. Smith said his interest in the city was much greater. He favored the appointment of a business manager for the city who would have charge of its general administration. To such a man he would be willing to pay an adequate salary.

J. R. McIntosh joined the general chorus in favor of the removal of the intake pipe and expressed the opinion that we could afford to wait for a while before tackling the gas question. Speaking of the elective form of commission government, he said it might be well to wait for six months before submitting the plebiscite and in the meantime the whole question might be thoroughly investigated.

Rice Sheppard said he had lived in the city for the past 17 years, but had not taken any previous part in public affairs. He was in favor of an ample supply of pure water and a good sewage system for the south side. He also favored a better lighting system for the streets and the purchase of more playgrounds and park lands for the young and old. More cars should be put on the street railway during the rush hours. He advocated swimming pools and public baths in the city. The commission form of government would stand further investigation.

Alderman Walsh reviewed the financial affairs of the city for the past year and said his record was before the electors, and if they approved it he would ask to be returned as alderman for another year.

School Board.

Mrs. Hill, S. A. G. Barnes, T. H. Miller, Dr. Park and Walter Ramsay repeated their speeches of the previous evening.

Miss Louise Moore made her debut as a candidate for the position of school trustee, pointing out that she had attended practically all the meetings of the board during the past year as a means of informing herself of the affairs with which it has to deal and the manner in which they are transacted. She was of opinion that "woman's intuition" is a good thing to have on the board.

Tonight's Meeting.

The meeting scheduled for this evening will be held in the Arcade theatre on Kinistino avenue.

M'DOUGALL CHURCH WILL SEE MUCH ACTIVITY SHORTLY

Next Week Municipal Candidates Will Speak in the Auditorium.

SUNDAY MORNING REV. MR. COOPER WILL SPEAK

Usual Meetings Will Be Held on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday Evenings.

The coming week will witness one of the most unique events which ever took place in a Methodist church. On Friday night there will be a large ratepayers' meeting in this church, when all the candidates who are running for office in the coming elections will be present and will be given an opportunity to speak. The pastor of the church will act as chairman, and several city clergymen will occupy seats on the platform. The officials of the church feel that this church holds a unique position in this city, and their idea in opening the doors to a meeting of this kind is to bring he discussion of civic affairs under auspices which should tend to uplift.

On Sunday morning Rev. W. Cooper, who represents the Bible society, will speak in this church in the interests of his department. He will not make an appeal for money, but will simply outline the aims and work of his society. At the evening service the pastor, Rev. Dr. Armstrong, will preach, and indications are that another large congregation will be present to hear this strong preacher. Last Sunday night many people were unable to secure seats owing to the fact that they arrived at the church too late. It is necessary to be at the church not later than 7.15 to be sure of a seat. The service begins at 7.30.

The usual meetings will be held during the week. Epworth league on Monday night, prayer service on Wednesday night, men's association on Thursday night, and the big ratepayers' meeting referred to above, on Friday night.

NUMBER 23 THE PROPRIETORS

STORY OF HOLD-UP OF INSPECTOR HYETT UNTRUE

Man Most Concerned in Report Emphatically Contradicts It—Was at Home.

The report which appeared in certain local Journals yesterday and today to the effect that W. J. Hyett, an inspector on the street railway had been held up and robbed at the point of a gun about eight o'clock last Tuesday evening at the north entrance to the high level bridge, is effectually proven to be incorrect by the very definite statement of the man most concerned.

Mr. Hyett in an interview with the Capital this morning declared that on the night the alleged robbery was committed he had been on duty until 8 o'clock. Shortly afterwards he was in his home and remained there the rest of the evening. At no time during the evening or Tuesday was he in the neighborhood of the high level bridge. Mr. Hyett also assured the reporter that the car coat mentioned in the report of the robbery is hanging quietly from its hook at his home waiting for colder weather when it will be more appreciated.

Mr. Hyett has only been recently appointed inspector, having arrived from England about four months ago, where for 17 years he had been connected with tramways in various capacities. The inspector is at a loss to account for the origin of such a strange yarn as that in which he has been made to figure so prominently.

POLICE COURT

Tommy Will Dry Out.

Thos. McNamara, truly is a vag. for the past two weeks he has been trying to bum drinks off frequenters of the Jasper House bar. Finally the patience of the hotel constable became exhausted, and he handed him over to the city police, to do with him as they pleased. It pleased them to lay a charge of vagrancy, so Tommy appeared with his black eye in police court, to state his reasons why he didn't think he was a vag. His reasons, however, were not forceful enough to save him from a $15 and costs fine, or 20 days.

Thirty-two from Boozists.

Magistrate Massie found it necessary to repeat the formula of four dollars and costs eight times for the benefit of the eight drunks

George Awoke First.

Harry Francisco, alias George Gray, charged with theft, was remanded until Monday. It is alleged that George met a man named Wilson and the two had a drink or two together, and afterwards took a room together in the Jasper House. Wilson alleged that he woke up in the middle of the night and saw George standing in the room with his clothes at his feet. He jumped up and asked him what he was doing, whereupon Gray ran away. Wilson felt in his pockets and discovered that his money, consisting of about $25, was gone. He then ran after Gray shouting "Stop thief." Gray was caught at the door of the hotel.

C.N.R. STEAMBOAT TRAIN A SUCCESS

Over Two Hundred and Fifty Passengers Avail Themselves of Service.

The steamship special train which the Canadian Northern railway ran from Western Canada, and which left Edmonton on November 19, proved an unqualified success, over 250 being on that train when it left Winnipeg. The train reached Montreal on time and the passengers who travelled on it have expressed complete satisfaction with the service given and the comfort of the tourist sleeping cars.

A second steamship special train will be leaving Edmonton and district on the evening of November 28, connecting with numerous steamers sailing from St. John and Halifax. This affords a very comfortable way to get to the sea-board without change, and the tourist cars enable passengers to have comfortable berth accommodation at only half the rates charged in standard sleeping cars.

In addition to day coaches and tourist cars there will be a dining car attached, where meals will be served at very reasonable rates.

KAISER'S FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC POLICIES

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Much interest has been caused by a publishers announcement of a book by Prince Von Buelow, formerly imperial chancellor, dealing with the foreign and domestic policy of Germany under the present monarch. It is one of a series of books on similar subjects by distinguished writers and some sensational predictions of its contents are made.

Those best informed however not only believe in Prince Von Buelow's assurance in the Reichstag, that he would never publish his memoirs, but being aware of the former chancellor's attitude in the state and imperial affairs, do not expect any startling disclosures.

Extracts are expected to be issued by the publishers very soon.

AMERICANS DINE IN OLD-FASHIONED NEW ENGLAND WAY

Three Hundred Sit Down to New England Dinner at Empire,

FIRST CELEBRATION OF CAN.-AMERICAN CLUB

Will Keep Friends at Home Cognizant of Opportunities in This Country,

About 300 guests sat down last night to the first real orthodox New England Thanksgiving dinner ever held in the city of Edmonton. The scene was the Empire auditorium, and the occasion was the Thanksgiving celebration of the lately formed Canadian-American Club.

Mr. J. E. Brown, manager of the Sommerville Hardware Company Limited, is the club's first president. In his opening remarks last night he said there were many Canadian Clubs in Canada and some Canadian Clubs in the United States, and and some American clubs in Canada, but this is the only Canadian-American club so far in existence.

One of the great objects of the club as outlined by Mr. Brown, is to keep the friends at home cognizant of the wonderful growth and new opportunities of the city in which the members of the club have made their new home. The club has grown with remarkable rapidity. "In the last two weeks," declared Mr. Brown, "our membership has doubled, and if we go on increasing at this rate in 20 weeks we shall have a membership of 100,000."

The decorations of the banquet hall were all in keeping with the essential idea underlying the coming together of a body of men and women anxious to show their love and attachment to the land of their birth. The national emblems of both countries were intermingled in a manner best calculated to symbolize the coming celebration of 100 years peace between the two great nations of the North American continent.

Among the many telegrams of congratulations, or of regret at not being able to be present, was that of William Jennings Bryan, American secretary of state. He was glad to accept an honorary membership in a club the objects of which he so cordially approved.

Personally, as well as officially, he wrote, I am pleased to encourage any movement that looks to be maintaining and strengthening of the friendly relations existing between our country and our neighbor on the north. Greetings were also received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Premier Borden.

His Worship Mayor Short represented Edmonton in its welcome to the new club and to Americans resident in Edmonton. "We Canadians," he said, "adore handsome women and admire and respect strong men, and say, give us more of both."

A. F. Ewing, K.C., replied to the toast to Canada. He referred to it as one of the ironies of fate that that part of America which had been British had ceased to be so, and the part which was originally French is now British. He was sure, however, that all was for the best and that the friendly rivalry which exists between the two nations was at the same time accompanied by the love of the two nations for liberty and economic freedom.

The toast to America was taken care of in an able manner by Ben Goldman. Alex. Stuart, K.C., returned the compliment paid to the Canadian Club, while the toast to the Overseas Club was well responded to by the club's president, Lionel Gibbs. Last, but far from least, came Mrs. A. F. Ewing's response to the toast to the Women's Canadian Club.

VIOLENT RESISTANCE NOW EXPECTED FROM THE EAST INDIANS IN AFRICA

London, Nov. 28—The advices received from Durban are symptoms of the grave results likely to follow the embitterment produced in the minds of the South African ministers by the speech of Baron Hardinge, viceroy of India, at Madras, on Wednesday in which he sympathized with passive resistance of the Natalians to invidious and unjust laws, and demanded an impartial inquiry into these.

The viceroy's speech is variously explained here as an unfortunate indiscretion and as the result of a grave feeling in India calling for such outspoken sympathy. There is little doubt, however, in the minds of those who have studied the situation, that it will encourage the Indians in Africa to violent resistance.

Vancouver, Nov. 28—After having completed the examination of a contingent of 56 Hindus, and unravelling a great immigration problem the officials at the Vancouver detention buildings are now face to face with another similar task.

When the liner Chicago Maru berthed from the Orient it was learned that there were 29 natives of the Indian empire booked to this port and after a brief examination they were permitted to disembark and escorted to the detention buildings where examinations will be made as to their eligibility.

Of course, they did not come direct from their native land and therefore, the old immigration trouble will once again be argued, but following the judgment of a few days ago, it is possible that all the newcomers will be permitted to gain admission to Canada.

ROBBED MAN OF $35; IS PROMPTLY ARRESTED

Accused of Taking Money From Beneath Pillow of An Acquaintance

"I have been robbed of $35."

These words, uttered by J. W. Head, caused the arrest of William Marks, early this morning.

It is alleged that Marks met Head on the street yesterday, and suggested to him that they go to a rooming house on Fifteenth street. This they did. During some conversation that they had together, Head mentioned the fact that he had $35 in his purse. Both men had a bed in the same room and Marks suggested, as there had been so many cases of money being stolen in rooming houses, that Head put the purse in his coat and put it under his pillow. His advice was acted upon and the two men went to rest.

Some time later Head woke up and noticed his companion of the previous day had disappeared. He at once looked under his pillow for his coat, and found it was still there, but the money was gone. He lost no time in getting on his clothes and notifying the police.

A few hours later Mark was safely lodged in the police cells, with a charge of theft against him.

Head had taken the precaution of making a note of the number of his bills before putting them in his purse, and when Marks was arrested he had $12 on him and the numbers corresponded with the numbers that Head gave to the police. Twenty-three dollars had been spent. Detective Kroning arrested the man.

HAROLD HARVIE CALLED UNEXPECTEDLY BY DEATH

Young Man Popular in Edmonton, Passes Away in Calgary Hospital After An Operation.

Harold Harvie, a well known and popular young man who had been in Edmonton a year before going to Calgary, died at the General hospital Calgary, Tuesday, following an operation. Only a few days before he was about the city, enjoying excellent health, and the news of his sudden death came as a shock to his friends and acquaintances.

Harold Harvie was 29 years of age, and was the son of a well known dentist of Winnipeg. For a number of years he traveled in Western Canada as the representative of a Winnipeg concern, and this association gave him a wide acquaintance. Shortly after he located in Calgary in the cigar business, and after the disposal of this business about a year ago he became the Calgary representative of the Canadian Mineral Rubber Paving company, and was with this concern when it went into liquidation.

Mr. Harvie was a great devotee of sport, and took a very keen interest in all the athletic, hockey and rugby teams.

His family decided interment shall take place in Winnipeg.

SPECULATION OF THE WILDEST KIND IN OIL LEASES

Rush Seems to Have Subsided —No Claims Filed This Morning,

NOT A SINGLE SHAFT SUNK IN THE DISTRICT

Whole Excitement Seems to Have Arisen From Casual Remark of a Prospector.

There was not such a strong smell of petroleum prevading the offices and corridors of the Dominion land office this morning as has been the case the previous two days. Practically no claims for oil rights were filed this morning, the most favored sections of the new oil district having been apparently pretty well blanketed and exhausted by yesterday afternoon.

In an interview with Mr. Norquay, Dominion lands agent, it was learned that speculation of the wildest kind is being indulged in by all who are seeking oil to the north of Athabasca, as it has been learned that not a single shaft or drill has as yet been sunk in the district affected.

From the multitude of rumors at present floating around the lands office the following facts were culled by the Capital. It appears that some weeks ago an oil expert from Los Angeles, Cal., was sent up to the north country at the instance of one of the largest oil syndicates of the United States. When he arrived in Edmonton he needed a guide and companion for his quest and after some time made the acquaintance of Mr. Fraser of the city assesor's office on the south side. Together they attacked the vast wilderness lying to the north of Athabasca Landing in the hope of discovering traces of the precious fluid.

On the return journey it appears that Mr. Ross, the California oil expert, made a few remarks in the Landing on the nature of the lands he had just come from surveying. Among other things he made the short, but portentious statement that in the "V" formed by the bend of the Athabasca river directly to the north of the Landing there ought to be a good strike of oil. That was enough for the natives. After some short mental speculation came another kind of speculation involving prospecting trips to the suspected district. These trips were not of the most satisfying nature from the fact that up to now not a single drill has been sunk in the particular part of the country affected by the present rush. But hope springs eternal in the western breast and it was not long before some C.N.R. trains to Edmonton were crowded by those anxious to get in on the ground floor in case there should be anything in all the oil talk which has been so rife the last few weeks.

LATE MARKETS

Winnipeg Grain.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—The market opened at 1½ to ⅞ advance and was fairly active during the early hours, but was weaker towards the close on the lower Liverpool cables. Oats showed some recovery after yesterday's extreme weakness and flax was active and advancing. The cash market is heavy and sagging, with an indifferent cash demand and offerings very large.

Receipts show a slight but significant decline and may be expected to fall off steadily from now on. Inspections for today were 1,343 cars and in sight 1,350 cars.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, Nov. 28.—Closing weakness in Winnipeg yesterday was offset here by our agents' cable reporting unsettled conditions in Argentina. Predictions are for light world's shipments, other than American, and spot markets firm, with a good demand. Over night offers from Winnipeg were lower, and a private cable from Argentina states that the weather is generally fine and roads will be released early turned fellers.

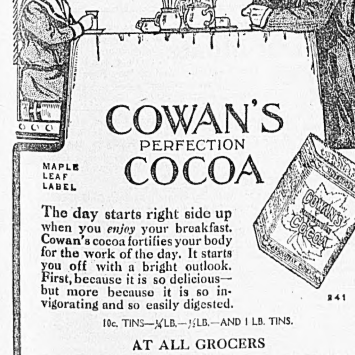

Spain's Railways Prosperous.

Madrid, Nov. 28.—The three lines of railway through the heart of the Pyrenes, between France and Spain, now under construction, will be of great commercial value as shorter and more direct means of transit than have hitherto existed.

The line between Jaca, Spain, and Oloron, France, will be finished, it is thought, in 1917. In June, 1914, the Chemin De fer Du Midi of France will begin to operate that portion reaching from Oloron to Bedous. The work from the Bedous to Estaut has been taken over by the contractors building the Somport tunnel, who will prepare the road bed for rails, and it is thought that the tunnel will be completed during the coming year. Work on the Spanish part is proceeding rapidly.

Evidences of the increasing prosperity of Spanish roads are numerous. During the past five years passengers have increased from $1,000,000 per year to 53,000,000; freight from 18,000,000 tons to 32,000,000 tons, and railway receipts from 270,000,000 pesetas to 394,000,000 pesetas.

HITS THE TARGET FROM AN AIRSHIP

New Gun Makes a Profound Impression Upon British Army Officers.

London, Nov. 28—The new automatic machine gun, the invention of Colonel Lewis, retired, U.S.A., was given exhaustive tests yesterday at Hisley, in the presence of a distinguished gathering of English army officers, and foreign military attaches. The new gun, resembling a large rifle in appearance, only with an outer jacket and covering barrel, weighs only 27 pounds. The action is totally automatic and capable of 600 rounds a minute.

With the Lewis gun mounted on a Graham-White aeroplane, Lieut. Stellingwel, of the Belgian army, scored 11 points today in 14 shots, from an altitude of 600 feet on a target of white sheets 20 feet square.

Those present were greatly impressed with the demonstration, several army men being of the opinion that it would supplant a Maxim gun.

Boy Snatched Bike While Owner Was Temporarily Absent—Other Thefts Reported.

While the manager of the Star Messenger Service, 611 First street, went upstairs to his office yesterday afternoon, someone stole his bicycle. He placed the matter in the hands of the police and detective Lancey was detailed to look after the case.

This morning a boy named Joe Rechon, 143 First street, was arrested by the detective and taken over to the police station, where he confessed to the stealing of the wheel. He will be handed over to the juvenile department, to be dealt with there.

Mr. Ross, the manager of the Star Messenger company, states that only the night before someone stole the lamp from his wheel, and some time ago one of the messengers had his lamp stolen.

TODAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS.

1912—Willie Ritchie won on a foul from Ad Wolgast in the 16th round at San Francisco, in this battle the lightweight title passed from one German-American to another, for both the "Michigan Wildcat" and the "Native Son," had ancestors who were subjects of the kaiser. Ritchie's real name, as every fan knows, it dearly Siefers, and he got his name by problem by appropriating the moniker of his first ring victim. Early in his career as a professional box-fighter Ritchie was defeated by California Frank Burns, Matty Baldwin of Boston, and Freddy Welsh, the English champion.

1906—Tommy Burns and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien fought 20-round draw at Los Angeles.

1913—Joe Rivers defeated Joe Mandot in 20 rounds at Los Angeles.

1912—Gerald Cross defeated Battling Nelson in 10 rounds at New York.

1912—Jack Britton stopped Young Saylor in 7th round at Dayton.

Hope to Settle Strike.

Schenectady, N.Y., Nov. 28.—William C. Rogers and James McManus, of the state board of mediation and arbitration, arrived here today in an effort to settle the strike of the 14,000 employees of the General Electric company. A conference between the company officials, the strike committee and George R. Lunn, the socialist mayor of the city, took place later.

The threatened sympathetic strike of employees of the street railway did not materialize.

DON'T ASK CHARITY, BUT DEMAND WORK

Hundreds of the Unemployed Hold a Meeting in Market Square at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28 — Some 1,500 unemployed men gathered in Market square last night to attend a meeting called by the labor men of the unemployed.

Addresses were made by various labor men, and a resolution was passed by the crowd asking the mayor, aldermen and committees to use their influence to relieve the serious situation which confronts the city, by opening relief works, or in any other way they may consider fit.

"We don't ask for charity—we want work," they cried.

Another meeting will be held tonight.

INDUSTRIAL ASSOCIATION TO INDEMNIFY WINNIPEG

Must Give Bond to City Otherwise No Exhibition Will Be Held Next Year.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 28.—If the Canadian Industrial association is willing to give the city a bond indemnifying it from any indebtedness over an agreed sum to be given it, there will be an exhibition in 1914, but otherwise the chances are largely against it.

The decision was only reached after a discussion lasting nearly two hours, yesterday between the council and the board of control, with Mayor Deacon occupying the chair.

The resolution which will be finally passed was "That the city will grant the total sum of $29,000 to the Industrial association for 1914 and out of this sum will spend $6,775 for the maintenance of grounds and buildings, the city in addition to supply water and light free. This grant being conditional upon the directors of the association executing a bond satisfactory to the city, guaranteeing the city from any further expense in connection with holding the exhibition and the maintenance of grounds and buildings for 1914."

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S TROUBLE WITH THE HINDU PROBLEM.

British Columbia, which is always more or less "up against it" on the race problem, is threatened with an inundation of Hindus, and the immigration authorities and the judiciary have come to grips over the question in a struggle in which the strangle hold is not barred.

Heretofore the immigration authorities have taken advantage of the circumstance that there is no direct steamship service from India to British Columbia, the Indian immigrants arriving via China, and by requiring that Hindus, like other immigrants, must arrive from the land of their birth, the immigration department has managed to limit the influx. But by establishing, in the face of official opposition, their right as British subjects to move about freely within the empire, many thousand Hindus have managed to run the gauntlet at Vancouver and are now plastered about the industrial scenery of British Columbia, much to the discomfort and chagrin of the white population. Now, however, the judges have set out to stop the immigration department's interpretation of the law, or rather their evasion, and should the judges succeed in establishing their jurisdiction over the department in the handling of immigrants who are already on Canadian soil but, not having been accepted, have not officially arrived, the whole question will then necessarily have to go up to the Dominion house for settlement.

That the Hindu is a positive menace, especially in British Columbia, goes without saying. Where, by a foolish land law which precludes the white race from free access to the land and thereby places in the position of laborers a very large percentage of the Caucasians, forcing the white man onto the labor market in competition with the Hindu, the ultimate outcome is too obvious to require even mention.

To keep the Hindu out of British Columbia it will be necessary to upset the high-sounding principle that British subjects shall have freedom of movement within the empire. But be that as it may, the fact is there that the Hindu must be kept out.

TRIUMPH OF THE RIDICULOUS IN EXPRESS SETTLEMENT.

Before Canada may indulge in the luxury of a parcels post, the post office department, according to the dispatches from Ottawa, must settle with the railway companies as to the amount to be paid the railways for their service in handling the parcels, and the payment is to be not upon a basis of the extra tonnage offering by the post office, but upon a basis of indemnity to the railway companies for the business lost from the express companies.

Just why the dominion should indemnify the railway companies for the fact that the carrying business will be moved from the express cars into the postal cars is not very apparent; but such seems to be the outcome of the government's blunder in ever having permitted the express companies to invade a field which could much more economically have been handled by the post office department, of which it is a natural adjunct.

The express business is an anachronism. It should never have been allowed to establish itself in the first place, and for the government to have refused to invade the field which the express companies were allowed to occupy in what is quite clearly post office territory and to now admit that there is indemnity coming to the railways because of the fact that the express companies cannot compete is surely the triumph of the ridiculous.

A SURER TEST ON DIRECT LEGISLATION.

Lack of interest in the abstract proposition of whether or not the electors want direct legislation is shown by the Saskatchewan referendum upon the referendum, less than twelve per cent. of the electors having cast a vote on both sides of the question.

The fact, nevertheless, that the vote stood six to one in favor of direct legislation may be taken as an indication of the trend of sentiment. The interest which is lacking in the abstract question would, in all probability, be very lively in any case where there was a concrete and definite question submitted for settlement. A better test of whether or not public opinion is in favor of direct legislation might be to submit some question of general interest to the referendum. If the electors failed to vote in any larger numbers than they did upon the abstract question it might properly be taken as an indication that they do not want direct legislation.

THE FIGHTING SPIRIT OF LIBERALISM.

Liberalism throughout the Dominion is in fighting spirit. In Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia, where conservative governments are strongly entrenched, nothing is being allowed to go by default. Bye-elections are being strenuously fought, not so much in consideration of the prospect of immediate victory as of seizing the opportunity to arouse and educate the people. Middlesex, in Ontario, yesterday, in line with other recent contests, showed a decreased conservative majority.

Courage and a fighting spirit of the kind now being displayed by the liberal party in every section of the dominion will not long have to await the day of complete victory.

CORRESPONDENCE

NOT IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Editor, The Capital:

Dear Sir,—Will you permit me, through the columns of your valued paper, to correct a wrong impression that is being formed in the minds of the public. I desire to say that I am not the J. W. Turner, who is taking part in the present municipal campaign. I am now in my seventh year in the service of the amalgamated city of Edmonton, and during that period I have always, and still take, a neutral position in regard to municipal politics. But at the same time feeling free to exercise my franchise as my own judgment may direct.

Thanking you for space, I am, yours truly,

J. W. TURNER,
Supt. of Waterworks Dept.
City of Edmonton.

TODAY IN DOMINION HISTORY.

Louis de Buade, Count de Frontenac, the great soldier and statesman who restored the fallen fortunes of France in America, died in Quebec 215 years ago today, Nov. 28, 1698. With his death the French power in Canada began to decline. Frontenac was born in France about 1620, and at seventeen became a colonel, while at 29 he was a veteran, with the rank of lieutenant-general, covered with glory and decorations and scars. After his victorious European career he was chosen to lead the troops sent for the relief of Candia, and in 1672 he was made governor. In 1673 he built Fort Frontenac, on the present site of Kingston, and he was the patron of Joliet, Marquette and La Salle in extending French influence westward. After a memorable controversy with Bishop Laval, Frontenac was recalled in 1682, but seven years later he was re-appointed and ruled Canada with an iron hand until his death. During his absence the French dominions in America again tottered on the brink of ruin, but with tremendous energy he set about the task of restoration. He made war on the English in New York and New England, and their Indian allies, and carried desolation into the country of his enemies. He was in Montreal when told of the approach of Col. Schuyler. Although then three score and ten, Frontenac called out his reddish allies, donned the war-paint and chanted the war-song in their presence, and then led them successfully against the foe. Later he repulsed Phipps at Quebec, and gained several other victories before his warlike zeal and unceasing activity exhausted him.

November 28 is the birthday of the fourth Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada, 1851; and of the Rev. Dr. Oates Charles Symonds Wallace, former chancellor of McMaster University and pastor of Baptist churches in Toronto, several United States cities, and Montreal, at Canaan, N.S., 1856.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

Centenary of the Autlose Massacre

The blood-spattered pages of early American history recount many terrible tales of murderous massacres perpetrated by ferocious redskins on the palefaced pioneers who had taken up the white man's burden in far wilderness. There are at least two sides to every question, however, and there were occasions when the white man's vengeance took the form of cruel and wanton butchery. Such an occasion was the "battle of Autlose," a century ago, when Creek women and children, as well as braves, were slaughtered by their white foes.

In November of 1813 the Creeks of Alabama and Georgia, incited by Tecumseh and his brother the prophet, who had visited their country two years before, were on the war-path. Defeated in several engagements, they fought on, and many unfortunate white settlers were slain. From the survivors went up a cry for help, and it was answered by General John Floyd, who placed himself at the head of 950 Georgia militia and 400 friendly Indians, guided by Mordecai, a Jewish trader, the army entered the region of hostilities from the East. Floyd was informed that the "hostiles" had assembled, with their squaws and papooses, at the village of Autlose. This was the Mecca of the Indians, a town built on "holy ground," on which the Prophet had made the Indians believe no white man could set foot and live. They had had many demonstrations of the power of the Prophet and Tecumseh, and so at Autlose they dwelt in fancied security.

Just a century ago today, Nov. 28, 1813, Floyd and his army reached the town, which was built on the left bank of the Tallapoosa, about twenty miles above its confluence with the Coosa. The night was spent in preparations, and as the sun rose on Autlose the Creeks saw before them a paleface army, arrayed for battle in three columns. Still confident that their gods would protect them, the Indians calmly awaited the onslaught. The roar of artillery, followed by a bayonet charge, destroyed the Indians' faith in their deities. In wild terror the Creeks fled from their "sacred ground," only to be hunted down and butchered with fiendish cruelty by the whites. It is estimated that fully two hundred of the redskins were murdered. The town, with its 400 rude dwellings, was burned, and the whole country round about laid waste. The vengeance of the white man was complete, and it had cost only 11 lives.

The great Indian leader, Tecumseh, and his brother, the Prophet, had visited the Creeks and roused them to revolt two years before the battle of Autlose. Tecumseh had 50 followers, entirely naked except for the eagle feathers in their headdress and the buffalo tails which dragged behind, appeared before a great council of the Creeks in 1811, and in fiery speech exhorted his hearers to abandon the customs of the palefaces and return to those of their fathers. He warned them—and not without truth—that the Americans were seeking to exterminate them and possess their country. The prophet had learned when a comet was to appear, and told the excited Creeks that they would see the arm of Tecumseh, like pale fire, stretched out in the vault of heaven at a certain time. An earthquake, predicted by Tecumseh, and which he asserted he would cause by stamping his feet upon the ground, also added to the blind faith of the Creeks in their advisers. The further promise that Autlose would become a holy place where no white man could enter led them to rise in arms, and within three years their nation was ruined.

YUKON SEASON SUCCESSFUL.

Ottawa, Nov. 28.—Dr. Alfred Thompson, member for the Yukon, arrived in the capital last evening en route to Elmsdale, N.S., where he will remain till shortly before parliament opens. He reports that the Yukon has had a successful season. Last season the output of gold was about five million dollars. This year it is likely to exceed that amount by at least half a million.

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

The worst feature of bronchitis is the tendency to return year after year until the system is worn out and gives way to consumption, or other ravaging disease.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine owes much of its great popularity to the fact that it positively cures bronchitis, and this is about as severe a test as can be made of a medicine of this kind.

Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years, had bronchitis, and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her, and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use, and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

In fighting diseases of the throat and lungs half the battle is in having Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at hand to be used promptly. This is why many people prefer to buy the large family size bottle.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

Three Famous Men, Earl Grey, Barrett and Garrison, Will Celebrate Today

Albert Henry George, fourth Earl Grey, who was the Duke of Connaught's predecessor as Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of Canada, was born 62 years ago today, Nov. 28, 1851. During his distinguished career as an administrator and a leader in movements for the public welfare, Earl Grey has been as great in peace as many of his ancestors were in war. The first Earl Grey was a famous soldier, and was a commanding officer of English troops in the American revolution. The fourth Earl's father was Gen. Hon. Charles Grey. The present Earl succeeded his uncle in the title in 1894. After graduating from Cambridge he entered parliament as a Liberal. In 1896 he was made administrator of Rhodesia, and from 1898 to 1904 he was director of the British South Africa Company. In 1904 he was appointed Governor-General of Canada. The Earl owns an estate of some 17,000 acres in Northumberland. Since leaving Canada he was engaged in many polar movements. He is especially interested in co-operation, and in an address before the Congress of the International Co-operative Alliance, held in Glasgow last August, he urged co-operation as the basis of the ideal state of the future, which could put an end to the tyranny of the trusts and reconcile the warring forces of labor and capital. In the course of his speech Lord Grey painted a glowing picture of the future co-operative commonwealth of the world, which, he declared, would embrace all civilized peoples. The most inspiring motto the world has ever known, completed the Earl, was that of the co-operative movement: "Each for all and all for each."

Lindsey M. Garrison, Secretary of War in the cabinet of President Wilson, is a clergyman's son and a native of New Jersey. He will begin his 58 year today, having been born in Camden, N. J., Nov. 28, 1864. Mr. Garrison spent a year at Harvard studying law, and completed his legal education at the University of Pennsylvania, in the meantime gaining practical experience by service in a Philadelphia law office. He was admitted to the bar in Philadelphia in 1892, and six years later removed to Jersey City. He became vice-chancellor of New Jersey in 1904, and occupied that post when he was offered a cabinet portfolio. The Secretary lacks practical experience of the science of war, but Mrs. Garrison was an army girl, having been born at a military post in Arizona while her father, Capt. Samuel Hildeburn, was helping to quell an uprising of the redskins.

Perhaps the best known "Yankee" in South America is the Hon. John Barrett, director of the Bureau of American Republics. The eminent diplomat was born in Grafton, Vt., 47 years ago today. He was educated at Worcester, Mass., Academy, Vanderbilt University, Nashville Tenn., and Dartmouth College, and then went to Oakland, Cal., where for a time he was a teacher in Hopkins Academy. He then took up journalism, and for several years was employed on the editorial staffs of papers in San Francisco, Tacoma, Seattle and Portland Ore. He was associate editor of the Portland Telegram when, in 1894, he accepted the post of minister to Siam. Later he was diplomatic agent in the Far East, war correspondent in the Philippines, and the United States minister to Argentine, Panama and Columbia. He has been director of the Bureau of American Republics since 1906.

SPORTOGRAPHY

Joe Walcott, "Black Demon of Barbadoes," Was Terror of Ring

It will be just seven years to morrow since Joe Walcott, the "Black Demon of Barbadoes," passed his check as a fighter. The former champion of the welterweights who was one of the greatest fighters of all time, engaged in his last important ring battle on Nov. 29, 1906, when he fought Hogey Mellody. The ex-demon was pounded all over the ring, and was at last brought to realization that he was all in as a fighter. He was then in his 35 year, but it was not age that ended his pugilistic career, but a bullet. Like most "darkeys," Walcott was fond of sporting a gun. One night he was showing off at a darktown dance, and accidentally sent a bullet through his trusty right—the fist that had won him over a hundred battles. After that he was a one-handed fighter, and naturally he couldn't last.

Joe was born in British Guiana in 1879, but later removed to the neighboring West Indian island of Barbados. As a youth he shipped as cabin boy in a schooner, and left her at Boston. There he worked at various jobs, and eventually became the human punching bag in a "gym." At first his shape—he was almost as wide as he was tall—was a source of amusement, but in a little while Joe picked up some of the points of the boxing game and began slamming in punches in a manner that wiped the smile off the faces of his antagonists. He soon developed into a great boxer and a classy wrestler, and Tom O'Rourke added Walcott to his stable, which also included George Dixon, the wonderful little colored boxer. In 1901 Walcott met Iuha Ferns, the welterweight champion, at Fort Erie, and knocked out the former in the fifth round, annexing the title. Rube had reached the top of the welterweight heap only a few months before by defeating Matty Matthews at Toronto. Walcott never insisted that his opponents make any special weight. "The bigger they are, the harder they fall," was Joe's motto. He whipped Joe Choynski, the clever heavyweight, and challenged Jim Jeffries, Tom Sharkey, Jim Corbett and other top-notchers. When he went over to England in 1902 to take part in the coronation boxing festival, he offered to bet $2,000 that he could whup any English heavyweight, but none of them accepted the offer. Walcott has always hated Sam Langford, and whenever the pair have met they have immediately proceed to mix.

The ladies of Robertson Presbyterian church are holding a bazaar tomorrow in the old Presbyterian church, corner of Jasper and Third street. A lunch for business men from 12 to 2 o'clock. A sale of fancy articles, afternoon tea, an orchestra during the afternoon and amusement of all sorts complete the program.

The junior promenade at the university, Wednesday evening, was a great success. The patronesses gave everyone a warm welcome and looked well to the enjoyment of the young people in the dance room which was attractively decorated with flags and "Varsity" pennons. The banner of St. George, presented by Earl Grey some years ago, had a prominent place on the wall. The girls all looked the personification of sweet girl graduates. Mrs. Tory wore a handsome gown of black satin with jetted net overdress. Mrs. Broadus was gowned in pale shell pink satin with girdle of black flowered chiffon caught with pink roses. Mrs. Lewis wore a pale blue nimon trimmed with white swansdown. Mrs. Sheldon's costume was turquoise blue with lace draperies. Mrs. Allan wore pale blue with crystal trimming. Mrs. Race wore an elegant gown of mauve with Irish lace accessories.

Mrs. Reginald Cantley received yesterday at her residence on Twenty-sixth street. Mrs. Pardee assisted and poured tea at a table beautifully adorned with roses. Mrs. Cantley wore a French gown of blue crepe with tunic of white embroidered net veiling, a girdle of rose pink satin. Mrs. Pardee had on a smart black satin with blouse of black chiffon veiling, white and a small chic black velvet hat. There were a large number of callers.

Mrs. W. A. Campbell, 1247 Twenty-sixth street, received for the first time yesterday since coming to Edmonton. The drawing-room was charming with a cosy open fire—quantities of plants and flowers and lighted with an array of candles in old Sheffield silver candle sticks, and nothing is more picturesque than this mode of lighting. I wonder more hostesses don't adopt the fashion. The tea table was very dainty. Tea was poured by Mrs. Sydney Hope-Thompson, who wore a pretty costume of cream nimon with a black hat and cerise plume.

Miss Kate Campbell, who assisted her mother in receiving, wore a pale blue frock of charmeuse satin with white lace ruffles on the bodice. Mrs. Campbell wore a handsome gown of black satin with black chiffon and lace draperies. There were a large number of callers.

A magnificent "Thanksgiving dinner" was held last night in the Empire auditorium by the Canadian-American club, the initial function of a club only a few weeks old, but which already has a membership of more than 200 members. The object of the club is to strengthen the bonds of friendship between the countries, and last night helped to cement a goodly feeling. Patriotic music by the Polmatier Sisters kept things going, and the smashing of plates by the waiters who seemed unaccustomed to such lively music, caused a great deal of merriment, so that jollity reigned. Speeches were made by Mr. Ewing and Mr. Short, and a program of readings, instrumental and vocal solos followed.

The ladies were gowned in semi-evening dress, and a great many were becoming hats. Mrs. Brown, Mrs. East, Mrs. Milne, Mrs. Jeffries and Mrs. Hall, and several others whose names I could not learn, were those, who as a special committee, made the gathering so successful, while Mr. Lay Mr. Petrie and Mr. Barlow, aided and abetted in the proceedings. Mrs. Ewing and Mrs. Short were both present. At the conclusion of the dinner a dance followed and was thoroughly enjoyed by the assembled guests.

Mrs. Broadus, who is well known as a clever lecturer, gave a most interesting evening at the Y.W.C.A. last night, her subject being the art of "Jane Austin." Anyone who has read Jane Austin's books, as Mrs. Broadus says, must either become a devoted "Janite" or else, as several great men declared, find her a dreadful bore. Her people were not the people of today, but one certainly finds them a rest after the strenuous life one gets in the modern novels. Jane Austin's heroines had time for thinking and their conversation was not made up of imbecilities as is the heroines of today. Mrs. Broadus read extracts from "Emma," which is a miniature so finely painted that one can scarcely realize the amount of work which has been put upon it, and from "Pride and Prejudice", also written with a cunning hand, and in reading brought out the human touches very deftly. At the finale of the lecture Mr. Everard Edwards made a short address in which he moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer and paid a tribute to the graceful writing of Jane Austin, Charlotte Bronte and George Elliot, who were, so to speak, rivals in the literary world. The room was filled with an appreciative audience.

THANKSGIVING DINNER.

American Thanksgiving was observed in a most satisfactory manner by the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Smith, of Eighth avenue, last night. Covers were laid for 10, and the dinner was a complete Thanksgiving feast from the toast "To the Folks at Home," to the mince pie. Two immense turkeys contributed their all to this appropriate observation of the American holiday, and they were received with a silent vote of thanks and a bowing of belts. The guests were all Americans and included Messrs. Sidney Barton, Harry Doering and Llewellyn Smith, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., the former home of the host and hostess; Mr. Daniel Hendricks, of Decatur, Ill., and Messrs. A. C. Williamson, John Tay, Leland Gibbs, A. C. Wilbee, Judson Wilbee and W. H. Proctor, all of Buffalo, N.Y.

Daily Fashion Talks
BY MAY MANTON

A DAINTY UNDERGARMENT

DESIGN BY MAY MANTON.

7731 Corset Cover, 34 to 42 bust.

The corset cover 7731 is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents for pattern of the May Manton design.

HAND embroidered underwear is always the prettiest that can be worn. This corset cover is finished with scalloped edges and the embroidery includes bits of the punched work that is so much liked. It is a perfectly simple little garment for there are only shoulder and under-arm seams but it can be treated in several different ways. It can be cut with a square neck instead of a round one and can be made with shield sleeves. It can be cut off at the waist line and finished with a smooth fitting peplum. Women who do fine needle work will like to embroider the corset cover in this design or some other but it is always possible to use lace insertion with good effect.

For the medium size, the corset cover will require 1¾ yards of material 36 or 44 inches wide with May Manton's Embroidery Design 650 and ¾ yard of beading to finish as shown in the large view, 1¾ yards of insertion, 3½ yards of edging to trim as shown in the small view.

"READY MONEY" WELL PRESENTED AT THE THEATRE

Plot Acceptably Told by Author and Successfully Rendered by Good Company.

The presentation of "Ready Money" at the Empire theatre last night was one that may well be described as one of the higher class, not alone in respect to the story as told by the playwright, but also as to the manner in which it was presented.

Robert Ober, in the chief role of Stephen Baird, was as near perfect in his delineation of the character as could be looked for, and received the warmest encomiums from all who witnessed his work. Beulah Weed was also all that could be desired in the role of the maker of the "queer," who acquires money in a remarkably rapid fashion. He is an actor of great ability, and acquitted himself last night in a manner that was very pleasing.

The remainder of the cast was quite satisfactory on the whole, and the play may be said to have been very successfully staged.

The theme is one that concerns a young man who had a bundle of counterfeit notes thrust upon him, and whose friends insist upon his acceptance of their cheques in payment for shares of stocks, and it must be said that the author has worked out his plot in a very acceptable manner.

EMPEROR WILLIAM CRITICIZED.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—The Imperial parliament today discussed the much criticized action of Emperor William in ordering the court architect, Ernest Von-Ihne to draft new plans for a German embassy building at Washington in place of the plans of Prof. Bruno Mobring, who won the architect's competition. The subject was brought up by Dr. Moritz Johannes Munck National Liberal, who asked the government whether it was true that an architect who had not participated in the foreign office competition had been commissioned to draft the plans.

REALISTIC STORY OF AFRICAN WILDS IN TWO REEL FILM

Today at the Gem theatre, Jasper avenue east, there will be thrown upon the screen a two-reel picture that for sheer realism is unsurpassed. The picture was made on the Universal Pacific Coast Ranch. At this ranch there has been assembled the greatest and most extensive private collection of wild animals in Europe or America. With the aid of these animals and the remarkable natural setting of the Universal Ranch itself the producing company were enabled to make "In the Wilds of Africa" a triumph of realism and thrilling excitement. The principals in the story are a missionary, an Arab, a chimpanzee, a lion and an elephant.

The missionary is a doctor missionary and heals bodies as well as souls. The Sheik Ali Ben Abdul's sick child is treated by Dr. Clifford, who returns to his home, leaving the little one much better. Subsequently a native is mauled by a lion and again Clifford is sent for. It so happened that Paul, a brother missionary, is calling upon Clifford's sister, Alice, who lives with the doctor's family. Clifford being absent Paul consents to go and see the injured native. He is accompanied by Alice and finds on his arrival that he can do nothing and starts on his return journey.

Dr. Clifford's little baby girl attempts to follow her aunt, and is followed by a chimpanzee. Mrs. Clifford on her return misses the child and sets out armed with a rifle to find her child. She is pursued by a lion and climbs into a tree until it passes.

Paul and Alice return, but cannot find Mrs. Clifford and the baby. They then set out to find them and are in their turn attacked by a lion which, however, Paul succeeds in wounding. In the meanwhile the chimpanzee has led the baby to a hollow tree where it hides the child until the lion has disappeared.

In the meanwhile the witch doctor of the tribe to which the fatally wounded man belonged persuades the chief that Paul really killed the man. The natives in revenge go and burn Clifford's house. Clifford arrives and finds his house in ruins. To aid him in his search for his family he starts for the mounted police. His horse shies at the chimpanzee which has left the baby and throws Clifford, who rises with a hurt leg. In the meanwhile Paul and Alice have found the baby girl. Clifford, badly hurt, staggers to a stream and being faced by a lion shoots it. He is helped from the water by an Arab who has been sent to seek him. On the way they meet the rest and all is well.

AMERICAN WARSHIPS RELIEVED.

Washington, D.C., Nov. 28.—Secretary Daniels today ordered Rear-Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, to send the battleships Connecticut, Kansas and Ohio of the fourth division from Mediterranean ports to the east coast of Mexico as reliefs for the Louisiana, Michigan and New Hampshire, of the second division.

The fourth division will sail for Mexico on December 1, calling at Guantanamo for coal, and probably will reach Vera Cruz about December 20 or 21.

FORT FRASER SALE AT CALGARY.

Mr. Montague Moore of Vancouver, who is in Edmonton in the interest of the Dominion Stock and Bond Corporation, owners of Fort Fraser townsite, reports a very active sale at the auction held in Calgary on 26th inst., the total receipts exceeding over $50,000, which, together with Vancouver sale, makes the receipts from the two sales about a third of a million dollars.

Owing to the number of Edmonton people who are familiar with the Fort Fraser district, Mr. Moore expects the sale to be held here on December 2 will exceed that of Calgary.

This is the first opportunity Mr. Moore has had of visiting Edmonton, and he is most enthusiastic as to its future, stating that, in his belief, it will surpass all western cities, excepting possibly Winnipeg within the next few years.

MOTHER LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled.

"PLOT AGAINST THE GOVERNOR"

Gripping and Thrilling Political Story Told in Photo-Film at Empress.

A gripping and thrilling political story will be told by the feature film at the Empress today and tomorrow, "The Plot Against the Governor" is about as strong and lively a drama that the Empress management has thus far been able to offer its patrons. The story is a beautiful one and throughout displays the great Tammany methods and how the political machine is controlled.

Mr. Ferguson will be heard in several new selections on the pipe organ today and tomorrow. All week long he has delighted large audiences with his playing and it has now become so that people are attending the Empress theatre more for that than for anything else.

Coming soon to the Empress is Sir Henry Irving's greatest success entitled "The Bells."

"THE GANGSTERS," A LUBIN FEATURE, AT THE ORPHEUM

Pictures of Unusual Interest at Jasper East House Today and Tomorrow.

As a special feature for today and Saturday the Orpheum, Jasper east, is showing "The Gangsters," an exceptional photoplay of merit.

Tom Nell and Edith Baker, mission workers, one night happen upon a raid the strong arm squad is making of a crook retreat. The policemen have been fighting them of their weapons and Phil Fallon, the leader of the gang, is being roughly handled when Edith interferes. She gets the police to let him go, thinking she has an opportunity for reform. He accepts her invitation to supper and promises to attend the services. He attends the mission and is welcomed by Edith. He becomes deeply infatuated with her and when she and Tom leave he follows. Tom leaves her at the door, but Phil detains her until she agrees to allow him to call. He calls, but his chance of telling Edith that he loves her is spoiled by Tom. Phil is angered and leaves, vowing that he will win her in a few weeks' time. The evening makes the despertate and he goes to the mission at closing time. Tom and Edith are alone; Tom enters the adjoining room and Phil compliments his love. Edith repulses him in fear. His gangster blood is aroused and in his frenzy he steps to the table with a revolver and demands that Edith marry him at once. To save her sweetheart's life she submits and they leave confidently believe Tom comes out from the other room.

Tom finds out where they are living, he seeks Edith, but his visit is anticipated by Phil and he admonishes Edith to tell Tom that she married for love. Edith knows that to disobey would mean Tom's death and she does as directed. Later, about the time the baby comes, evidence is furnished to police by Tom that results in the overthrow of the gang. They are arrested and taken to jail. Edith is dying and sends for Tom. The letter tells him to take the child, for she wants her to grow up good, which would be impossible under the father's influence. Tom takes the child and the maid sends a letter to Phil, telling him that the child died with his wife. The king swore vengeance on Tom, and when they get out proceed to entrap him. When Phil returns to the rendezvous he receives word that Tom will be enticed to a deserted building where a time bomb will blow him up on the hour of 10:00. A broken down woman confronts him and he recognizes his old maid. She tells him that his child lives and gives him the address. He hurries there and finds the child. Tom is just leaving to go unknowingly to his death. Phil sees the love of the child for Tom. He enters; the child repulses his caresses and kisses. He finds the letter from Edith to Tom and his mind reverts to the opening chapter. He hurries away to save him. The gang has already found Tom and placed him in front of a bomb built upon the back of an alarm clock. It is within a few moments of the hour and the gang is waiting for the explosion. Phil goes to the window, but is captured. He, reaching through the bars with a pole catches the end of the alarm clock, the top ring of the clock and pulls it through the window. As he backs away with it there is an explosion, the full force of which he receives. The gang goes to the shack. There they find Phil dying. He insists that they bring Tom to him. He begs Tom's forgiveness, which is granted. He then makes the gang promise to leave Tom alone, for the sake of his child and tells Tom he must carry out Edith's dying wish.

FIRST THINGS

The first American author to win general recognition of his genius in Great Britain was Washington Irving, who died, in his 77 year, at "Sunnyside," N. Y., 54 years ago today. The immortal humorist, historian and essayist was born in New York, the son of a native of Scotland. He was educated for the law, but his tastes were all in the direction of literature, and his legal career was a brief and almost indifferent one. It is soon explained when it is found that the occupants sit in their kitchens, so that the streets will not be garish at night.

A cat slinks out from a doorway, trying to be wicked, as is the natural wont of a cat, but before it reaches the next shadow a shocked and reproachful voice calls, "Now, Tabby, come right in," and the cat slinks hopelessly back.

"And everybody is good in Blackwell?" The correspondent asked Mr. Todd.

"They are," succinctly responded His Majesty, who, pressed to account for it, exclaimed, "We don't allow them to be anything else" and Mrs. Todd put in, in kindliest fashion, "I think it is because we take such an interest in them."

"Perhaps it is," rather reluctantly admitted Mr. Todd.

This benevolent despot went on to say that the colleries owned everything in Blackwell, employed every man and boy, about 5,000 workers, to whom $30,000 is paid weekly, and controlled everything in the village, "except the public house, which we don't notice."

"We have the best cricket grounds in England and on it we've played 42 matches this year, losing only six. We have tennis, polo and football, besides, dances and musical evenings, too," said Mr. Todd.

Tennis, Tea and a Band

"And during the tennis season we have teas on the grounds," interpolated Mrs. Todd, "the wives acting as hostesses."

"We have a first class band and a boys' brigade," proudly said the King.

"I tell you, sir, they're a fine class of people here, the nicest and most respectable colliers in the country," he went on. "You see, I don't allow anyone here to be pauperized. We have our pensioners, and I object to his prosecuting anybody, whatever. If anybody is bad the policeman reports him, and I deal with him, and if he is very bad I send him away."

"But is the policeman happy, too?"

Mr. Todd did not admit that the policeman's lot was merry and say, and on the way back to the station the respondent met the "man coming homeward with a walk more like a sailor's than a collier's. But even if they were a bit the worse for wear they had a cheery greeting.

On the bridge stood a lonely figure, as austere and majestic as the ghost in Hamlet. A street lamp glinted on his helmet.

"Are you the one Policeman, and are you truly happy?" began the correspondent, but just then the boy train to Nottingham busily hustled into the dolly house of a station and the policeman's answer was drowned in the clatter.

A SOUR STOMACH GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all Stomach distress in five minutes—Time it!

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin. Then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" crunks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

REAL SINLESS TOWN EXISTS IN OLD ENGLAND

Little Mining Town is a Triumph of Virtue—Lone Policeman Has Nothing to Do.

London, Nov. 28.—All Canada knows of the existence of a "Sinless Town," but who from Halifax to Vancouver ever heard of a "Sinless Village?" There is one in England, and it is a mining town, too. The little town of Blackwell, in the colliery district where one would naturally suspect flotsam and vice. Instead of vice owning Blackwell, virtue triumphs, almost to a degree, the visitors say, of monotony.

"I just won't allow any sin or wickedness; that's all," says the King of Blackwell, who is in private life J. T. Todd, manager of the Blackwell Colliery Company.

The sojourner and sociological investigator tramps a mile and a half from the railway station to Blackwell, only to find a town built in small, compact rows, fashioned with a precision that absolutely reflects its righteousness. At one corner there is a public house, as a saloon is called in England, but this is the neatest and trimmest of resorts and turns its face in stonefaced fashion away from the main thoroughfare. Inside a few quiet spirits sit and witness Home Rule and football, the two predominant subjects in England, without the slightest rancor and in almost subdued tones.

Occupants Sit in Kitchens

Under a September moon, and with the faint incense of field and hedgerow arising through the streets, Blackwell looks to be very best place in the whole world, and the adjective is applied in the purest way. The wayfarer walks along and only his footsteps break the stillness. No lights show in the fronts of the tiny houses, and it is soon explained when it is found that the occupants sit in their kitchens, so that the streets will not be garish at night.

A cat slinks out from a doorway, trying to be wicked, as is the natural wont of a cat, but before it reaches the next shadow a shocked and reproachful voice calls, "Now, Tabby, come right in," and the cat slinks hopelessly back.

MRS. FISKE WILL APPEAR IN FILM AT THE MONARCH

Will Be Shown Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Next Week.

The motion picture has recently earned a great deal of praise and respect by reason of the unusual dramatic and artistic accomplishments which it has made possible, but surely it has had no greater claim to recognition than that which it derives from the appearance of Mrs. Fiske in her foremost success, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," which has just been produced in films by the Famous Players Film Co.

Neither the name of Mrs. Fiske nor the title of the famous play, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" requires any introduction to the American or Canadian public. Mrs. Fiske is the artistic materialization of the dramatic soul of America. She exemplifies the spirit and the essence of our ideals and art. She is the living and intense symbol of the dramatic aspirations and ambitions of the western world.

The subject selected for Mrs. Fiske's initial appearance in motion pictures is the play in which she attained the loftiest heights of dramatic power and the greatest measure of public approval—Thomas Hardy's inspired masterpiece, "Tess of the D'Urbervilles." It is the pathetic record of a woman's pitiful career and immortal epic of sorrow. Evil may flourish anywhere, but when it comes into conflict with inherited pride and passionate love, the outcome is eternal tragedy. Such is the bitter story of Tess—the tender chronicle of a great misfortune.

Story of the Play

Hardy's sublime story as told in the films runs as follows:

Parson Tyngham traces the genealogical history of John Durbeyfield, and discovers that he is the lineal descendant of the ancient and knightly family of the D'Urbervilles. Lazy and slouthful always, John Durbeyfield, on the strength of his heritage, now abandons himself to a life of ease and indolence. Tess, his eldest daughter, is a beautiful girl, who has inherited all the weaknesses and passions of her ancestors. One day, at a Maypole dance, Tess is attracted to Angel Clare, a stranger in the countryside, who, out of diffidence, dances with every girl but Tess. To advance the financial prospects of her family, Mrs. Durbeyfield conceives the idea of sending Tess to establish relationship with the rich and powerful D'Urbervilles of the adjacent county. Tess encounters Alec D'Urberville, who is enamored of her immediately and engages her for work on his farm. The inevitable happens. Alec deceives Tess, and in shame and humiliation she returns home, where her child is born. The child expires, and poor Tess makes a determined struggle to reclaim her ruined life. She obtains employment at a dairy farm, where happens to be Angel Clare. The two fall in love, and once more Tess' future begins to promise happiness torn by conflicting emotions, she decides to write Angel of her former false step, and places the note under his door. He never finds her confession, but, convinced that he has read it, and forgiven her sin, after his continued solicitations, she consents to marry him.

The Bitter Past.

After the marriage Angel tells Tess of a former fall from grace, and Tess promptly forgives him. He takes her in his arms, and in the dim firelight, thinking he already knows the bitter fact, she proceeds to relate her indiscretion with Alec D'Urberville. Angel is shocked by the revelation, and leaves Tess until he can bring himself to forgive her.

Destitute and despairing, Tess is again found by D'Urberville. He offers her protection and support, and discouraged by Angel's desertion, she again pays the price for existence. In the meantime Angel's old love for Tess reasserts itself, and he determines to return. He finds her in lowly and splendor in D'Urberville's home. Tess is torn with despair as she sees her last chance for happiness slip away, and when D'Urberville taunts her concerning Angel she grasps a knife and in insane anger kills him. She overtakes Angel, and together they seek shelter in the ruins of an old Druid temple. Her crime is detected, she is followed and traced, and confronted by her pursuers. Hopelessly she surrenders herself to the law.

In a grim, gray prison, safe at last from the world that had tempted and cursed her, Tess spends the remaining years of her life with her broken heart and shattered hopes, a martyr to man's wrong.

This remarkable film production will be exhibited on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next.

NERVES ARE SORE AND PAINFUL

Neuritis, or inflammation of the nerves, is the most painful of nervous ailments. You may feel the soreness or tenderness throughout the body, or it may be confined to certain nerves. In the head it is called neuralgia; in the hips and legs, sciatca; in the face, tlcdoloreux, and in the chest, intercostal neuralgia.

The application of dry heat affords relief from the lance-like pains, but the essential thing is to build up the exhausted nervous system by the persistent use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will have other symptoms to warn you of the depleted condition of the nervous system, and this is your opportunity to restore to the body the energy and vigor of health.

While this great food cure is instilling new vitality into the starved nerve cells it is also forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and, by noting your increase in weight, you can prove beyond doubt the benefit being obtained by its use. This is Nature's way of curing diseases of the nerves, and it is the only way to obtain lasting benefit.

MRS. KEANE EXPLAINS REGARDING HER SUIT

She Gives Her Side of the Story as it Was Told at the Hearing of the Case in Court.

In reference to the supreme court case in which she defended her suit against J. P. Cragg who put up her house on the south side, Mrs. Keane says:

"The printed reference to it has it that Cragg in replying to questions put by his solicitor, H. H. Parlee, said that the extras and alterations had been made at the request of Mrs. Keane.

"Since Cragg's side of this part of the case was given, it is only fair to give the other side. In regard to the alterations which were due to the mistakes in the plans or measurements, I gave evidence that I had nothing to do with these, and asked the contractor if it were the habit of builders to charge the owners with their mistakes in measurements and other blunders such as leaving a house without any back door, or making a bathroom too small to hold even a bathtub.

"In reply to the judge's question, who was responsible for the plan—who drew it up? Cragg admitted that he was, and in fact the plan and the contract went to show that he did. Another extra for changing from cotton and paper to burlap and paper was asked for. In regard to this, the evidence showed that no cotton or paper was ever brought to the house, and that none was ever put on. I giving evidence that the request for burlap came from Cragg who found that putting on the cotton and paper would take twice as long as putting up the burlap.

"The only alteration that I demanded was that part of a ceiling that Mr. Cragg was putting up without the lumber underneath it that the contract called for. In regard to the plumbing alterations, Mr. Cragg in his examinations for discovery and again on the witness stand, answering leading questions by his counsel, swore that he did not know the meaning of 'accessories,' and that he thought that a complete bathroom consisted of only a bathtub. He adhered to this under questioning by Chief Justice Beck. I listened quietly to all this, and perhaps the most dramatic part of the evidence was when I walked up to the witness stand with a plan drawn out by himself giving the five pieces agreed upon, i.e., the three pieces in the bathroom, with boiler for hot water and the kitchen sink, and the estimated price in his own writing that he had obtained from the plumber for the same.

"I also called Mr. Clay of the Strathcona Plumbing company to give evidence, and he corroborated Cragg's plan and writing by swearing that Cragg had got this estimate from him, thus contradicting his sworn testimony that he gave a few minutes before and in his examination for discovery.

"In regard to the paste incident, the evidence showed that Cragg had asked me if I would save him the cost of a man by mixing the paste, and I said that though I did not know anything about it, I would help him as well as I could. After the first batch fell down Cragg got glue to mix with the paste which gave no further trouble, but it was found later that he had covered a bunch of electric wires which prevented the burlap sticking close to the ceiling. He made this same mistake again when he replaced the burlap with the heavier board, and I remarked on the carelessness of any builder who would make such a blunder."

WHITE RAT AT THE EMPIRE SAYS "GOOD MORNING"

Anyone Wishing to Hear Novelty Should Go to the Stage Door.

Did you ever hear a rat talk? No? Well, then, if you have an inclination to hear a pet white rat say "good morning" in speech, call at the stage door of the Empire theatre any afternoon or evening the first half of next week and ask for Tryon, the animal trainer who will be more than glad to accommodate you with an interview with his pet, which will be one of the features of the animal act of the Orpheum vaudeville show.

Mimi was found in a small customs junction town in Switzerland called Modane. Mr. Tryon, having been quite ill on the train en route to Paris, decided to stop off at Modane over night. He thought a bath would refresh him, and rang for an attendant. While the attendant was placing his tub a little white object emerged from his coat pocket. The professional trainer made a hurried getaway, having never previously had experience with the rodents. Even then Tryon forsook his pedestal with great reluctance. The attendant explained that Mimi was the last of five pet rats his brother had when he toured Europe with a circus. Tryon took a great fancy to the little rodent after hearing it say "good morning," and succeeded in persuading the attendant to sell it for 100 francs, or $20.

SPLIT 40 CORDS AT AGE OF 85

Thankful to the Medicine That Gave Him Ability For the Task.

A VERY INTERESTING CASE.

Few men of eighty-five years of age can boast of much else but poor health and failing strength. And such was the condition of Mr. Benj. Marsh, who is known to every soul in the neighborhood of his home at Lime Lake, Ont.

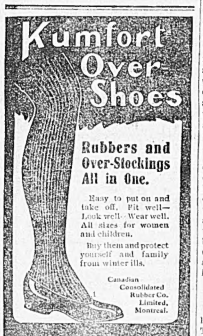

"Quite unsolicited," writes Mr. Marsh, "I wish to say how I have been bothered for years with stomach trouble. I tried everything I could think of without benefit. I was terribly afflicted with swelling and gas, and had much distress between meals. I tried everything I could think of, but without benefit. Then I was recommended Nerviline. My, but Nerviline did me a power of good—made a new man of me, so that within the last three weeks I have been able to split about forty cords of stove wood. I will always stick to Nerviline and will always recommend it, and would like to meet anyone and convince them if in doubt as to what Nerviline has done for me."

For sour stomach, nausea, belching, of gas, cramps and sudden sickness at night, nothing is more helpful in the home, nothing saves so much pain and distress as Nerviline. Large family size bottles, 50c.; small size, 25c., at all storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

WESTLOCK NEWS

A meeting of citizens and farmers of the community in and around Westlock was held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 19th, for the purpose of organizing the Westlock Board of Trade. There were about 100 present and the object of the meeting was carried out without a hitch. The following officers were unanimously elected: Hon. President, John W. Currie; President, George D. McTavish; Vice-President, J. Dezall; Secretary, H. Hyman; Treasurer, Murdoch McGregor. The next meeting of the board is called for Thursday evening, November 27.

The bazaar and social in aid of the English church, held in the church building on Friday evening, was a success in every way, and great credit is due to the ladies for their wholehearted efforts in making the bazaar the success that it was, and for the charming manner in which they carried out the work during the evening. The 200 or so present fully appreciated the excellent program of songs and recitations and brought up the articles of clothing and fancy work in a liberal manner. The recitation contest between Edwin Stanley, Rev. Digbye, Thos. Jorgensen and Misses Azil Bell and Mabel McEachern was perhaps the most interesting item on the program as a medal was being offered for the best selection. They were all so good that the judges deliberated a long while before coming to the conclusion that the prize should go to Miss Mabel McEachern as they decided that her recitation was delivered in a slightly better style than any of the others. The songs were rendered by Mrs. Lloyd Nettleton, Miss Henshaw, Miss Lovell, Miss Mannen, Mr. Lovell and Mr. Lloyd Nettleton, while Miss Wheatley attended to the instrumental part of the program. The sum of $80 was realized from the sale of work.

Mr. J. Dezall recently purchased Kinsella's business on Main street and has remodelled the building into an up-to-date store. He has just put in a large stock of hardware and is doing a big trade in that line.

Quite a number of fine buildings have recently been erected at Westlock. Mr. Patterson has built a nice house and barn on his property on Second street, and Mr. Marrs has his dwelling on the same street completed. Mr. Wheatley is building a fine house on Third street.

Mr. Auman's large dwelling on Second street is almost completed and now he is sitting back waiting for a prairie chicken to alight. He says that if she does not come soon, he will have an English pheasant too.

Mr. George McTavish has an order from the E. D. & B. C. contractors to supply them with two carloads of potatoes for use in the construction camps. It is stated that the railway will also buy all the butter, eggs and beef that the farmers around Westlock can supply.

NO DECISION GIVEN.

New Orleans, Nov. 28—Johnny Dundee, of New York, led in nine rounds of a 10-round no decision bout here last night with Charlie White, of Chicago. The other round was even. At the end of the second round, White seemed to be in trouble and between the second and third the lights in the building where the fight was held, went out, and the house was in darkness for a few minutes. The fighters weighed in at 130.

THANKSGIVING DINNER OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY

Noteworthy Utterance of Viscount Haldane on Behalf of Government.

BRITISH CABINET ENDORSES THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Uncle Sam's Sons Celebrate Day in London With Dinner at Which Are Many British Guests.

London, Nov. 28—The Thanksgiving dinner of the American society here last night was noteworthy because of the pronouncement of the British government's endorsement of the Monroe doctrine by Viscount Haldane, the Lord Chancellor. Three hundred and fifty American men and women, with a large number of British guests were present, and they cheered Lord Haldane's words again and again.

Robert N. Fairbanks, president of the society, proposed "The King," and Lord Haldane proposed "The President of the United States." "I recently made a visit to the United States," he said, "and came back not only with a vivid recollection of the cordial welcome I received, but with a deep sense of the high ideals the British and American nations held in common—the high ideals of citizenship of the two countries."

Referring to the president, he said: "Before he became president, Mr. Woodrow Wilson was a thinking man and a moralist. In studying his career I cannot fail to be impressed by his detached character, and find that he has not ceased to be a thinker and a moralist because he has become the holder of a great office. We see in him the aspirations and ideals expressed of his nation to the world. It is not only his expressed declaration that the policy of the United States is not one of conquest or annexation; but the world looks to the United States with its enormous position and possessions, to carry on its traditions without adding to its possessions.

"That is our course also. Nor is it the case that when the United States intervenes in any matter, it is done for its own advantage. It was not the case with Cuba, to whom the United States restored independence. England itself has done the same thing in South Africa, where we gave back liberty to those with whom we fought."

Speaking of the Monroe doctrine, he said, that the United States considered herself responsible for the liberties of the smaller nations of that hemisphere. He could see what was in the mind of the president of that time—that the responsibility rested with the United States to secure good government and fair treatment for those countries. He interpreted President Wilson's policy to mean that the United States was ready to accept the responsibility of insuring good terms herself in those countries and to those who went there, and that the United States should set up high ideals of policy, of justice and of righteousness.

"I am not sure that anyone should speculate upon the interpretation of that policy," continued the lord high chancellor, "but I have thought myself at liberty to say what I have. It is true, indeed, that a high spirit and a high aim have been brought into the policy of the United States in its dealings with adjacent countries, and it is because the president has taken the attitude he has—a step which no one can but admire whatever its consequences may be—that I propose good health to Mr. Woodrow Wilson, the president, and Mr. Woodrow Wilson, the man."

Sir John A. Simon, the attorney-general, proposed the health of the American ambassador, Walter H. Page, and declared him to be the worthy successor of his distinguished predecessors. He said: "America and England have given their best and their worst to each other. America has sent us ragtime; we have sent you militant suffragettes." Mr. Page referred to the warm reception which the American ambassador had met with in England and which he knew was a tribute to his country. Speaking of the difficulties of his office, he said that when the ambassador referred to the debt which America owed England, American citizens of Irish, German, Polish and Lithuanian blood, gathered to adopt resolutions denouncing him. Acknowledging Lord Haldane's speech, he said:

"The American nation is not one whit afraid to follow its bent to the utmost length. The lord high chancellor has spoken of doing what is righteous without regard to consequences. There are no consequences," he concluded emphatically.

Professor A. B. Alexander, chairman of the American delegation to the international conference on safety at sea, proposed "Thanksgiving Day." Lord Kintere and Colonel Sir Claude MacDonald responded to "Our Guests."

Lord Kintere spoke of the coming celebration of centennial of peace between the two nations. He said he hoped it would eventually be followed by the celebration of the millenium of peace, but those arranging the centennary celebration intended that nothing which might follow it would be more unworthy.

Sir Claude MacDonald, who was enthusiastically greeted, said so much had been spoken about the landing of the pilgrims on Plymouth Rock that he understood some Americans were disposed to wish that Plymouth Rock had landed on the pilgrims instead. He gave interesting reminiscences of the siege of Peking, in which he commanded the international forces, and said that next to the honor conferred upon him by his sovereign, the proudest moment of his life was when he was placed in command by the American minister of the American contingent there and fought shoulder to shoulder with them.

The guests included the staffs of the American embassy, consulate, the American delegates to the life saving conference, Baron Desborough, the Earl of Denbigh, Dr. Joe. Hertz, Chief Rabbi of Great Britain, Mgr. Arthur S. Barnes, of the University of Cambridge; Isaac Seligman, the Right Hon. Sir Honey Primrose, chairman of the Pacific cable board; Sir Rider Haggard, and Albert Swalm, American consul at Southampton.

PIMPLES NEARLY COVERED FACE

Especially on Forehead and Chin, Ashamed to Go Out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Month and a Half.

McMillan St., Oil City, Ont.—"My face was nearly covered with pimples, especially on my forehead and chin. The trouble began with pimples and blackheads and there were times I felt ashamed to go out. They were little red lumps and then festered and I squeezed the matter out.

"I rubbed on different remedies, —— Salve and ——— Cream but they did no good. Then I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. I got it and began using them and in a week's time I noticed a change. I used the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and one box of Cuticura Ointment from the drug store with the Cuticura Soap. In a month and a half the pimples and blackheads were gone and I am completely cured." (Signed) Miss Lydia McIlwain, May 23, '13.

A generation of mothers has found no soap so well suited for cleansing and purifying the skin and hair of infants and children as Cuticura Soap. Its absolute purity and refreshing fragrance alone are enough to recommend it above ordinary skin soaps, but there are added to these qualities delicate yet effective emollient properties, derived from Cuticura Ointment, which render it most valuable in preventing a tendency to distressing eruptions and promoting a normal condition of skin and hair health. A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

LIQUOR WILL NOT BE CARRIED IN PARCELS POST

Hon. Sam Hughes Gladdens Hearts of Sons of Temperance With Statement.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—There will be one commodity which is extensively manufactured in Canada and is extensively imported into Canada and is shipped broadcast all over Canada, that will be excluded from the mails when the proposed parcel post system is inaugurated—that is liquor.

Col. Sam Hughes, moralist and militarist, is the alleged authority for this statement. He has been fraternizing with the Ontario Sons of Temperance here, and gladdened their hearts with the assurance, spoken, they say in the colonel's own commanding way.

Of course Col. Hughes is not postmaster general, Hon. Louis Pelletier is. So the news that "Sam" and "Louis" have been whispering confidence to one another, may be interesting to others besides the zealous forces of the Sons of Temperance.

CHICAGO WOMAN ADOPTS CHLDREN OF FIFTEEN RACES

Raking Europe and Windy City Orphanages to Complete Her Collection.

TO INCLUDE CHINESE, MALAY AND THE NEGRO

Other Types Will Be Included in Catalogue and Lady Will Be Mother to All.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Mrs. L. Bracket Bishop, wife of a wealthy business man, has made known that she plans to become the mother by adoption of 15 children, each to represent one of the 15 most characteristic racial types.

Her plans became known when her representatives visited local orphan asylums in search of the nucleus of her future family. Mrs. Bishop said that friends now touring Europe had been asked to find babes representing such races as she could not recruit in Chicago.

The unique family, according to Mrs. Bishop, will include a negro baby, an Indian, an Arab, a Japanese, a Malay, a German, a Chinaman, a Scandinavian, an American and Irish, and babes representing several of the South American countries.

In explaining her plan, Mrs. Bishop said she was in hopes of obtaining babies in which the racial characteristics of each promised to develop most thoroughly. The plan, she said, had been under consideration since the death of two daughters, 25 years ago. Mr. Bishop opposed it until recently, however, when she said she had been won over. She is in hopes of getting babes about one year old.

"We will move from the hotel where we are living now to a comfortable, good sized house in the outskirts as soon as the family is started," said Mrs. Bishop, "and we intend to bring the children up as nearly as possible as the American family of moderate means.

"They will go to the public schools, and I hope to show that, in spite of their different nationalities and racial traits, they will grow up loving brothers and sisters, as I mean to be a mother to them all."

Mrs. Bishop said some of her friends had attempted to dissuade her from the idea, suggesting the family would become known as the "human zoo."

SYNDICATE WILL TAKE OVER BIG OIL COMPANIES

Captain Barneson Has Arranged for English Capital to Purchase Them.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Captain John Barneson returned here yesterday from London and gave out the first details of the deal which he arranged for a big English syndicate to take over the General Petroleum Co., and the Union Oil company, of California. The syndicate will put up $75,000,000 for the formation of a holding company, whose securities will be listed in London and Paris.

The holding company will issue $50,000,000 of seven per cent, cumulative preference stock and five million shares of ordinary stock of the par value of $25,—000,000. The syndicate agrees to issue $3,000,000 for the use of the General Petroleum company, of which $1,000,000 has already been advanced and the remainder will be available January 1.

The six per cent. bonds of the general petroleum company will be exchanged for the seven per cent stock of the holding company. Members of the syndicate have agreed to buy or building 12 tank steamers, each of 10,000 tons burden, to ply between California and Europe, when the Panama canal opens. They will be in a position to use all the oil produced by these two California companies.

Backache Banished.

Thousands of men and women are suffering from weak, lame and aching backs, and many of them unable to do any work for the pain.

The stitches, twitches and twinges are bad enough and give enough misery, but, back of the backache, and the cause of it, all are the disordered kidneys crying out in warning through the back.

Backache is kidney ache, and there's serious trouble ahead for you if you neglect it.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of backache by curing the sick kidneys that cause it.

Mrs. Jack Mason, Springhill, N.B., writes:—"I have been suffering from backache for a very long time. I tried everything and did everything, but still I would suffer. One day I was looking over your Almanac, and saw your advertisement for Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got 3 boxes, and I am glad to say that they brought me back to life again, and from now on I will never be without them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

ROOSEVELT TO BE SNUBBED RESULT ORDER OF REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA

Bogota, Columbia, Nov. 28.—The republic of Colombia has issued orders to all its consuls, ministers or others resident officials in other South American states to take absolutely no part in receptions to Col. Roosevelt. An art store which displayed Roosevelt's picture was wrecked by a mob several nights ago and a picture of Roosevelt, with the head off, was nailed bottom up to a post.

LEAGUE ORGANIZED TO FIGHT CHINESE STATE RELIGION

Includes Mohammedans, Taoists, Buddhists, Protestants and Roman Catholics.

PRESIDENT'S MANIFESTO FAVOR CONFUCIANISM

Constitution Does Not Provide for State Religion But Movement is on Foot for Its Establishment.

Peking, Nov. 28.—A league for the purpose of opposing the adoption of a state religion in China was organized here yesterday at a meeting held at the Young Men's Christian Association and composed of representatives of Mohammedanism, Taoism, Buddhism, Roman Catholicism, and Protestantism, who are determined to contest the adoption of Confucianism as the Chinese state religion.

The constitution adopted by the Chinese parliament made no provision for any state religion, but a presidential mandate promulgated yesterday evidently favors the election of Confucianism, of which the adherents have been laboring sedulously for some time to secure the taking of this step by the president.

The Confucian revival movement has been led by Dr. Chan Huan Chang, a doctor of philosophy, of the University of Columbia, and a member of the Manlin Academy of China. He expresses the conviction that if China is to be saved from political ruin and moral corruption, exercise for his country's sages must be restored.

President Yuan Shai Kai, whose mandates are now regarded as approximate to the imperial edicts of the former era, describes the sayings of Confucius as a doctrine of unequalled wisdom which is recognized as such by many foreigners as well as Chinese, "deep as the ocean, sufficient although the ages change, permanent as the sun and the moon that cross the heavens and as the rivers that flow on the earth."

The presidential mandate is regarded with great disappointment by the Christian missionaries in China.

The American charge d'affaires in Pekin reported to the state department in October last that a movement to restore Confucianism was on foot in China. He told of the formation of a great Confucius society led by Dr. Chen Euan Chang, one of China's most learned young men, who had gathered around him many distinguished scholars, and that these had held a national convention at the birth place of Confucius.

From other sources in China also came the news of Confucius upheaval led by Dr. Chen Huan Chang and his associates in the movement. At the same time it was reported that great efforts were being made to influence the members of the Chinese parliament to insert confucianism in the constitution as the state religion of China.

GAZETTE RECORDS SOME CHANGES

Edison Renamed Westlock and C.P.R. Asks Extension of Time on New Lines.

According to the last issue of the Canada Gazette the C.P.R. is making application for an extension of time on certain sections of new roads, among them being a branch from Sedgewick southerly to a point in township 39, ranges 11-13, west of the 4th meridian, also from Killam to Strathcona.

The Gazette also states that an order in council has been approved setting apart all of the north east quarter of 6-78-5 south of the road allowance dividing that land from the Spirit River settlement in all 88 acres, for the purpose of an exhibition ground and experimental station for the Spirit River Agricultural society.

Under section 38 of the Dominion lands act, J. P. Duggan, a clerk in the office of the dominion land agency, Edmonton, has been authorized to take oaths, statutory declarations and affidavits.

By an order in council duly approved, ten acres of land has been set aside, in legal sub-division of section 10, township 39, range 2, west of the 4th meridian, to be used as cemetery by the Provost Cemetery company.

The Gazette also contains the information that there is no longer an Edison post office in the Edmonton district, as this has been changed and will hereafter be known as Westlock.

CONSERVATIVE WAS ELECTED.

London, Nov. 28.—John McFarlan defeated John W. Laidlaw, East Middlesex (liberal and temperance candidate for the provincial legislature, by a majority of 293. The vote was a large one, totalling 4,257, of which Mr. McFarlan received 2,265 and Mr. Laidlaw 1,927. George Neely's majority at last election was 539.

C.P.R. PROGRAM IS IN READINESS FOR COMING YEAR

Double Tracks Between Sudbury and Port Arthur and Thence to Calgary.

WILL MEAN LAYING OF 1,095 MILES OF RAILS

Will Also Double Track Through Mountains and Elsewhere and Build in Alberta.

Montreal, Nov. 28—The Canadian Pacific railway has its program all ready for next year. This includes the continuation of the program for this year to be carried forward into the new year—the double tracking between Sudbury and Port Arthur; between Port Arthur and Calgary, which calls for 1,095 miles of track; between Calgary and Vancouver; between Brandon and Calgary; the double track tunnel through the Selkirks; the double tracking between Revelstoke and Vancouver; a line between Sedgewick and Edmonton, 280 miles; two new lines from Bassano to connect with Swift Current. Then there is the Weyburn branch, running south of and parallel to the main line in Saskatchewan and Alberta to a connection with the Alberta railway south of Lethbridge—a distance of 436 miles. There are several other smaller lines ranging from 20 to 100 miles in truckage, which are included in the program which is to be steadily pursued next year as part of the policy undertaken two years ago, and which when all is complete, will more than absorb the $100,000,000, which Sir Thomas Shaughnessy announced the company intended to spend on the betterments of the railway.

The Grand Trunk has its plans ready for extensions; but is waiting for the favorable moment to approach the money market.

The C.P.R. did its financing before the depression became acute and therefore, finds itself in an unique and desirable position. All the big systems in the United States are waiting for a favorable turn in the financial conditions of the world to float bonds or loans, for the carrying out of the necessary work of betterment.

NAUNDORFFS' CLAIM CONFIRMED BY COURT

Confirmed Descendant of Little Dauphin and Paris Paper Fined for Libel.

Paris, Nov. 28—The French law courts confirmed yesterday the claim of the Naundorff family to be descended from the little Dauphin, who is supposed to have died in the temple prison after Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette were guillotined. The Naundorffs' now call themselves Bourbons and Louis Charles de Bourbon, head of the Naundorff family, brought an action this week against the paper "La Patrie" for denying the rights of the Naundorff to call themselves Bourbons.

The court, after hearing the evidence, admitted the Naundorff contention and fined "La Patrie" $100.

Louis Charles, otherwise Louis XVII. of France, was born March 27, 1785. He was the second son of Louis XVI., and became the Dauphin on the death of his elder brother in 1789. For the royalists he became King of France when Louis XVI. was beheaded in 1793. He was placed in the charge of Antonie Simon, a cobbler, and later was sent to the Temple, where, in 1795, after Simon had disappeared and a doctor who had attended him had died, it was said that the Dauphin himself had died. When it was announced that the Dauphin was dead, immediately there arose a rumor that he had escaped.

HALF MILLION DOLLARS IS WANTED AS SALARY.

Paris, Nov. 28.—A half million dollars is the minimum salary demanded by the Prince of Wied as King of Albania. The prince has already accepted the throne, and if the Austrian and Italian cabinets are inducing the other powers to accept him.

He insists upon a reasonable allowance to keep up his court. His present income is $30,000, and he thinks that even a poor country like Albania can afford to add a $500,000 a year to enable him to cut a kingly figure.

Italy and Austria are disposed to agree with him.

HENRI BOURASSA DEMANDS FRENCH IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Each Province Must Provide the Means to Perpetuate That Language.

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. 28.—Speaking here last night, Henri Bourassa said in Canada public education had been put, with certain restrictions, under the control and jurisdiction of the various provincial governments. Since the French speaking Canadian had a right to the official use of his language in every province of the dominion, the government of each province must provide him with the means to perpetuate that language and have it taught properly in the public schools, as the support of which he pays taxes. "When Canada emerges from its primitive state of colonial irresponsibility and vulgar mercantilism," he added, "its people will naturally be the rank and file of the cultured people of other countries. All educated men and women in Canada will then feel the necessity of understanding and speaking French thoroughly. Then, by what inconceivable folly are people driven to attempt to check or even eradicate the proper teaching of that language in a country where it is the inherited vernacular of one-fourth of the population."

Mr. Bourassa went on to say that some people seem to imagine that the whole world is contained within the four corners of the British empire.

GENERAL SCOTT IN CONFERENCE WITH BESHO SHE

U.S. Troops Reach Foot of Beautiful Mountain and Officers Proceeds Alone.

REFUSAL OF SUBMISSION WILL ENTAIL ATTACK

Overland Trip of One Hundred Miles Was Most Arducus One for Cavalry.

Farmington, New Mexico, Nov. 28—An Indian runner arrived here yesterday with the first news of the movement of the 12th cavalry, acting as escort for General Hugh Scott, ordered to the Navajo Indian reservation to subdue an uprising.

General Scott, accompanied only by an Indian interpreter, yesterday left Noel trading post, at the foot of Beautiful Mountain, the Indian stronghold, for a pow-wow with the Navajo chiefs. General Scott left his cavalry and escort 15 miles away, proceeding on horse back to the top of the mountain. The outcome of his conference will decide whether the Indians will surrender without a fight.

General Scott is expected to rejoin the troops today. The overland trip of the troops from Gallup to Shiprock, 100 miles, was a tedious one, requiring six days. Heavy rains had made the roads almost impassable for the wagon train. The troops are now encamped at a strategic point within five hours' march of Beautiful Mountain. They have a mountain battery and three rapid fire guns. Should Chief Besho She, with whom General Scott conferred today, spurn overtures of peace, then the troops will move against the Indians at once. Many Indians are reported to have recently joined the band on Beautiful Mountain.

KAISER'S FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC POLICIES

Prince von Buelow Publishes Book in Which Sensations are Promised

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Much interest has been caused by a publishers announcement of a book by Prince Von Buelow, formerly imperial chancellor, dealing with the foreign and domestic policy of Germany under the present monarch. It is one of a series of books on similar subjects by distinguished writers and some sensational predictions of its contents are made.

Those best informed however not only believe in Prince Von Buelow's assurance in the Reichstag, that he would never publish his memoirs, but being aware of the former chancellor's attitude in the state and imperial affairs, do not expect any startling disclosures.

Extracts are expected to be issued by the publishers very soon.

NON-MILITANT PROPAGANDA AGAIN WINS FOR WOMEN IN NEUCHATEL

Geneva, Nov. 28.—Women will now be able to enter the ministry in churches in the Canton of Neuchatel, as a result of a vote of the synod of the Protestant church, admitting women to the theological faculty.

The decision means that women who graduate in theology will be entitled to the status of the clergy. Neuchatel already has women doctors, dentists, lawyers, as a result of the non-militant feminist propaganda.

MAIL CARRIERS OFF FOR FROZEN NORTH

Carry Mail for Stefansson—Party Consists of Four Men and Two Dog Teams

The train for Athabasca this morning carried the members of a party sent out twice each year on the hike to Fort McPherson. Perhaps one of the most important packages carried by this party and one of the smallest, is a bundle of documents for Stefansson, the artic explorer.

This party, sent out by the Hudson's Bay company, will leave the Landing this afternoon on the long trip overland, and do not expect to reach their destination until February. The trip will cover some 2,000 miles, and the residents of this settlement, so far toward the arctic circle, will be anxiously looking forward to the safe arrival of the party in February. It is not at all to be wondered at either, because there is only two receptions during the whole year when they are permitted to get in touch with the outside world. All the rest of the time they are practically in ignorance of what the busy world is doing.

The little outfit which left the station this morning was made up of two dog teams in charge of four men employed by the Hudson's Bay company. The outfit taken along will reach something in the neighborhood of 600 pounds, and this will be divided up and placed half on each dog sled.

One of the teams has been billed out to Fort Smith, and the other will go on to Fort McPherson. The route followed will be along the banks of the Athabasca, Slave and Mackenzie rivers. To the ordinary individual, not accustomed to this mode of travel, this would be a most impossible trip, but to the men who have year by year been trusted with His Majesty's mail, it appears only a very ordinary task to start out for the frozen north.

The most northerly point to which mail is sent is Herschell Island. The carriers will not know until reaching Fort McPherson whether they will have to go on another 200 miles to this point. If the R.N.W.M.P. have had to fall back on Fort McPherson as the result of the supply ship Belvedere not having reached its destination, then the long journey of these brave men into the arctic circle will be at an end when they reach Fort McPherson.

QUEEN AGAINST THE TANGO.

London, Nov. 28.—Queen Mary has made up her mind that the tango shall not have her approval, and has given orders that it shall not be included in any entertainments which she patronizes. Consequently it is unlikely that the dance will be a feature of the great society balls in the coming holiday season. It will be interesting to see how far her majesty's disapproval of tango will affect the craze which now has all classes of English people in its grip, from peeresses to shop girls. The royal disfavor is certainly a hard blow, but it is doubted whether it will displace the tango in popular favor

LITTLE INTEREST IN DIRECT LEGISLATION

Saskatoon Plebiscite Shows Six to One in Favor, But Only a Few Cast Votes

Regina, Nov. 28—Returns from 55 towns show that a six to one ballot was cast in favor of direct legislation, but in all cases only a small percentage of the total vote was polled.

Not more than 12 per cent. of the required 20 per cent. of the total vote is claimed by the direct legislation league.

Regina apparently does not care whether direct legislation is enforced or not. Only about 14 per cent. of the vote was polled, the figures standing: 647 for, 280 against, out of a total of 6,431.

Saskatoon, Nov. 28—Direct legislation in Saskatoon is apparently a dead issue, only 3 1-2 per cent. of the voters appearing at the polls. In the 11 divisions of the city the total vote amounted to 340 for the proposed measure to 272 against.

Moose Jaw, Nov. 28—So far as Moose Jaw was concerned the vote on direct legislation was a failure and null, for 30 per cent. of the total electorate did not vote. The vote was as follows: For direct legislation 245; against 68; spoiled papers 8; representing about 9 per cent. of the total electorate.

North Battleford, Nov. 28—The voters of this city were in a majority against the direct legislation act. The result was 28 for the act and 41 against it. There was but very moderate interest taken in the polling.

Moosomin, Nov. 28—Little interest was taken here on the direct legislation the vote for the three town polls showing nine for and seven against. This is only about one-sixth of the names on the voters' list.

Minnor, Sask., Nov. 28—The vote on the direct legislation at Manor was 72 for and 2 against. There are 180 names on the voters' list for this poll.

Weyburn, Nov. 28—The result of the referendum vote was 87 for and 1 against. There was not much excitement.

SOCIAL WORLD SURPRISED.

London, Nov. 28.—Society was given a sensational surprise by the wedding of Lady Eva Cholmondeley to Harry Paravinci, the well-known cricketer. The Marquess of Cholmondeley and Walter Monier, a cousin of the bridegroom, were the only witnesses. The bride wore a golf costume and the couple immediately left for the north on a golfing honeymoon.

CANCER CURE IN RADIUM.

London, Nov. 28.—Sir Alfred Pearce Gould, the famous surgeon, speaking on the use of radium at Middlesex hospital, said: "We have sufficient to warrant in saying that the treatment of cancer by radium and emanations therefrom is attended by brighter, truer and more confident hope than ever attended any remedy, except an operation, up to the present time."

KIDNAPPING CANADIAN TRADE.

New York, Nov. 28.—"There is not much danger of the United States industries leaving this country to emigrate to Canada," said a man who but recently returned from the Canadian northwest. "They are not leaving the country, but are throwing a fence across the border. There is reason for the suspicion, however, that United States industries are kidnapping Canadian trade by simply assuming a Canadian disguise."

MOST ANIMALS ARE CAREFUL OF TOILETS

Some Fur Bearing Animals Attend Finer Points of Toilet, Oiling and Combing Their Hair Like a Broadway Star.

The instinct of cleanliness among animals brings about some interesting situations when the brute world performs its ablutions.

To us the most common form of animal toilet is that of the cat family. Cats as a whole, seem to have a cordial aversion to water and dislike to bathe in it; they prefer saliva. The rough tongue makes a first-class hair brush and where the tongue fails to reach the paws will. The claws are used as cleaners and often as toothpicks. The tail makes a very fine dust brush and is used as such.

Concerning the toilet of the fox here has arisen an interesting legend, but it is well to bear in mind that no one has yet seen the fox perform his toilet in the manner described by it.

It is said that when Brer Fox desires to rid himself of the troublesome fleas he first takes a ball of moss in his jaws, then slowly and carefully dips the end of his tail in the water, withdrawing and then dipping it again steadily, apparently differing in the flea's fate chance for his life.

When the tail has been entirely covered the remainder of the body is gradually immersed until nothing remains above the water, but the end of the nose and the mouth, in which is the ball of moss. By this time the fleas are supposed to have taken the hint and sought refuge in the moss. Then Brer Fox quietly and slowly leaves the moss floating and swims away under water, emerging elsewhere, ready to collect more fleas.

Monkeys are very particular about their toilet. They use the hand or forepaw, and sometimes spend days of patient labor in scratching and freeing themselves from fleas.

The use of water is not entirely unknown among animals. A certain species of chimpanzee wash their faces in cold water at least once a day. Rats comb themselves very carefully, using their nails as combs. They are careful to part their fur strictly down the middle of the back. Moles, hedge hogs, and similar animals comb themselves with their nails in the same manner.

Bears make use of water, rolling and splashing around in it and then licking themselves and scratching themselves with their nails.

The badger, in spite of his reputation for slovenliness in personal appearance, carefully oils his hair every morning with a certain pomade preparation which he produces from a pocket near the tail. The glutton splashes water over his abdomen.

Rats clean themselves in much the same way as foxes. Squirrels have a very interesting way of cleaning their paws. They always hold one with the other while washing them, and they cleanse so rapidly from one to the other that they seem to be rubbing their hands.

The marmots make a neighborhood affair of their toilet ceremonies, which are performed with much fervor and zeal. The members of the company form a circle and sit erect on their haunches on a flat stone. Then there is true competition, for they vie with each other in combing and scratching themselves.

The jerboa is called the cleanest of all rodents, and he is probably the most fastidious of all animals. He spends practically all his time at the toilet. No water is used in operation, but plenty of sand is necessary. The animal first digs a trench in the sand, lies down in it and moves his head in all directions. He sprinkles at full length, turns over, and then painstakingly cleans all parts of his body. The mouth and whiskers receive especial attention. He grasps the hair by the tufts and then combs it carefully with his teeth.

The jerboa assumes curious positions while cleansing the different parts of his body. While cleansing the abdomen, he extends his hinder legs full length and curves the body to form a ball. In cleaning the hind legs, he keeps one in the position peculiarly adopted while sitting; the other is stretched out at full length and balance is maintained by means of the tail, which being the hind legs for scratching they move so fast that they can hardly be seen.

The herbivora lick themselves with the tongue, first themselves with the tail and jerk the skin by contracting the muscles.

The hog has a reputation of filthiness that is not altogether deserved. If hog a river a hog will enter the water with evident satisfaction. The principal reason he wallows in the mire is because there is no clean water within reach. The wild boar wallows in the mire and then rubs himself against a tree.

The elephant is a firm believer in the advantages of the shower bath. After bathing thoroughly he fills his trunk with water and proceeds to sprinkle it over himself as with a hose.

Reptiles are of such shape that they cannot conveniently wash themselves, so they simply change their skins instead. The skin is detached like a coat, and sometimes comes off in many pieces in sections. Snakes change their skins several times a year.

Turkeys and domestic fowls are the only birds that shun the water. They prefer to scratch in the dirt and wallow in the dust. Ducks flutter along the ground and dust themselves in that way. One species common in the South African desert wallows in the sand.

Water birds bathe in the open. They take the water in their bills and liberally sprinkle themselves with it. Terrestrial birds bathe in small lakes or in cups, as the canary, for example. Swallows skim the surface of the water, wet their tails and with them sprinkle their bodies. Then they shake themselves and perform the very delicate task of preening. The feathers are vain of their wood looks, and the feathers must be smoothed one by one. This is done with the bill, which, by turning the head, can be made to reach all parts of the body. Sometimes the tongue is used as well as the bill. Finally, the bill itself is cleaned with the feet. Birds that live in families take turns in performing these functions for each other.

An Indiana city has recently utilized a special street sprinkling system that has been installed for ornamental illumination to assist the police in case of an alarm after the lights have been turned off at night.

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't-Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Occupation And Its Relation to Health

Noted Men Hold Different Views, One Claiming Falling Off of Race and Other that We are Ascending.

Mr. Herbert W. Fisher, of New Haven, has the following interesting letter in the New York "Evening Post" on Occupation and Health:

In a New York paper recently the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott attempts to administer correction to ex-President Eliot, of Harvard. The subject is an important one—nothing less than the health of the human race; which, in the opinion of Dr. Eliot, is seriously falling off; and, in the opinion of Dr. Abbott, is ascending from glory to glory. Mr. Akeed very frankly implies that he had not investigated the evidence on which Dr. Eliot relied, but even an amateur might scruple to contradict a scholar (saying of the scholar's words that "precisely the contrary is true") without first investigating the scholar's evidence. It is true that Mr. Akeed looked into a cyclopedia; but that is hardly enough—he should have looked into Mr. Eliot's own case.

Average Longevity

Some of Mr. Akeed's evidence is perfectly sound. It is true that the average longevity is increasing. It is also true that epidemic diseases are suffering defeat at the hands of sanitary fighters. Moreover, it is because of this discontinuance of epidemics that average longevity is increasing. And it is not true that the expectation of life at the age of sixty is improving. On authority about to be specified, I affirm that precisely the contrary is true; and it is because of this contrary truth that Dr. Eliot's warning should be heeded. But our estate is getting worse—that even our very existence is threatened.

Can you not see how average longevity may improve, and yet the ship of life be all the while going on to the rocks? Suppose that among 10,000 people dying today, one die at an hour old; some at 40 years; some at a hundred; the average being 40. Suppose that in a correspondING 10,000 dying on the next generation, ten years apiece have been added to the lives of 5,000 babies who formerly would have died in ——This adds 50,000 years to the total of 5 years to the average. But suppose that at the same time, a year has been lopped off from the lives of 1,000 men who die at ages above 40. This cuts off 1,000 years from the total, or one-tenth of a year for the average. In mere years, then, there is still a net gain of 49-10. But in human destiny the net result is not gain, but loss. The years given to the babies are less significant than the years taken from the men. The years given to the babies—with no years to follow—are not serviceable years. The years taken from them are the best years of the best lives in the community. Moreover, if the depletion of the men go far enough, it will undo all that has been done for the babies, by destroying the babies' protectors.

An Appalling Fact

And here is the illogical and appalling fact: that though at all early ages (usually under 40) there has been gain, yet at all ages beyond that point, there is a steady and progressive loss. The authority for these facts is abundant. They were revealed by the late Conservation Commission, in that part of their report dealing with the conservation of men. And the same facts are being every day reiterated by the life insurance authorities, such as Hitchenouse, of the Equitable. The same facts were but yesterday dug up by the City of New York in its first and only investigation of the subject. The same facts are, indeed, the burden of the statistical songs of all nations as sung at the recent International Hygiene Congress at Dresden. All and last, except England and Sweden; and none had gained except Sweden.

What are the diseases that kill under the age of 40? Mostly epidemic diseases. What are the diseases that kill above the age of 40? Mostly organic diseases. What are the causes of epidemic diseases? Sudden assaults from the outside. What is the cause of organic disease? Gradual derangement inside. But what limits the cause of this gradual derangement inside? The modern way of conducting life—and especially school; in other words, occupation. We greatly err if we conceive of occupational diseases as confined to greasy jaw, directly to unhygienic trades, to dusty trades, to poisonous trades; and as only two deaths are free from some disease or other—despite the defeat of epidemic diseases—the great fact of occupation keeps up as the most important fact in life.

City Life

This brings us to the modern city, concerning with Mr. Akeed takes further exception of Mr. Eliot. What Mr. Akeed alleges of city life is true enough; but it does not alter the truth of what Mr. Eliot alleges. It is the seniors of the city who have mastered epidemic diseases, but only after the life of the city had created—or, at any rate, aggravated, those diseases. And still it is the life of the city that is creating or, at any rate, aggravating organic diseases. Hold no brief for either country or city. Both are full of organic or occupational diseases. But the city is the determining factor: for it is chiefly to foster the city that the country labors. It was to make communities possible that men first gave up the natural occupations of hunting and fighting, and started farming in the country, and clerical work in the city. The country still has the advantage of fresh air and of hard physical exertion. But the exertion is excessive, and unnatural, and lacks the eager interest which inspired the primitive hunter. The city, on the other hand (as Mr. Akeed finally claims for it) furnishes the interest, but at the expense of the air and exertion. To the average city dweller, his adventures are, as it were, passive—drunk in at the theatre through an intellectual straw and in that sedentary posture which is the worst occupational defect of our times.

Once I heard a political economist lauding at our times because, through this division of labor, which is in reality the curse of our times, the poorest man is now provided with a great variety of passive enjoyments at the cost of only a single repeated operation of his hand or brain. But is not this precisely the consummation most devoutly to have been shunned, if the human race could have seen where it was going? Consider the versatility of us. Versatility is the unescapable condition of life. We can never thrive until we live according to that condition. Sound functioning demands not monotony in activity and variety in consumption, but simplicity in consumption and versatility in action. Nothing more signally illustrates how symmetrically we are traveling against our own interests than the much-vaunted feat of modern efficiency, whereby a bricklayer now lays 10 bricks in the time he could formerly lay but one. He lays the 10 by no longer having to stop for them. Did you ever hear of calisthenics? If you stand with legs and arms outspread, and then turn your arms at right angles to your legs, and then stop and touch the floor, you will be performing the most important evolution known to calisthenics. It is precisely the evolution of which the bricklayer has been deprived. It is very like the evolution which a man performs when he goes after trout. And, says Dr. Akeed—very soundly (but, strangely enough, he says it to prove that the city is better than the country)—"If I spent as much energy sawing wood as I do in catching trout I should faint away within the hour." For the present writer's part, if he ever caught himself catching fish in the city at all, he would faint within a minute. The last time I caught trout it was in the country. As a matter of fact, however, this is a sport that belongs neither to country nor city, but to that versatile primitive life which did not take its excitements passively, but as a part of its very livelihood. For what says Thoreau: "The serious occupations of primitive men are still the sports of the civilized."

But civilization will continue, as Dr. Eliot says, "preparing and promoting its own destruction," until it stops counting progress in economic terms—by number and speed—and begins counting it in terms of health. That is precisely what Sweden has begun to do.

Boycott of the Jews Continues in Poland

Matter is Serious to Two Million Jews Whose Expulsion is Desired—Christians Shall Not Buy From or Hire Jews In Any Work.

The boycott against the Jews in Poland is a matter of serious moment to the 2,000,000 Hebrews in that country. For, explains the editor of the American Hebrew (New York), it seems to be no transitory movement, but one based upon a strong Polish national sentiment, which "will grow with the development of Polish national feeling." The economic status of the Jews in Poland, adds this editor, as he summarizes the views of the Hebrew investigator whose article he has the leading place in the current issue of his paper, "was supposed to be secure owing to the lack of industrial and commercial enterprise among the Poles." But if the present boycott continues, "the Jews will inevitably be displaced and the Poles themselves will occupy their places."

There is a movement on foot to organize protest meetings in 100 cities of the country. But Dr. Syrkin, who writes the article describing the situation, suggests no remedy. He says:—

"The aim of the boycott is the organization of the Christian population toward the economic and social elimination of the Jews. Christian consumers shall not buy at Jewish stores. Christian manufacturers shall not employ Jewish workingmen and clerks. Christian banks shall not loan money on Jewish real estate. Christians shall not call in Jewish physicians or consult Jewish attorneys, or read books published by Jews, or, in general, tolerate a Jew in their midst. Christians shall not take a carriage which is driven by a Jewish driver, or buy an apple from a Jewish pedlar. That is the practical programme of the boycott, and its final aim is the total expulsion of the Jews from Poland. Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"In many villages the anti-Semites collect the signatures of the peasants and hold collective petitions to the Government in St. Petersburg that the Jews shall be expelled from their midst. And it is superfluous to say that the government pays attention to this kind of popular voice. Abuse and maltreatment of Jews, in the cities as in the villages, in public places, in the streets, and even in the synagogues, has become a normal thing. There are numerous cases of murders of Jews, of incendiarism, and riots as the effect of the boycott.

"A special press has been founded for the sake of propaganda of the boycott, and the daily paper of Warsaw, Riva Grobla, is leading the barbarous campaign. And this boycott press is seething every day with hatred, contempt, and inciting lawlessness against the Jews."

The causes of it, this "war of extirpation," are said to be social and economic. In the first place the Jews in Poland are rapidly increasing in numbers, both absolutely and as compared with the Poles; they are immigrating in large numbers from Russia. So, observes Dr. Syrkin,

"The Polish nation which is now organizing itself and is more and more awakening to the ideal of national independence, now faces the Jewish problem in all its gravity. The country has 15 per cent. of Jews, who are mostly concentrated in the cities. More than 50 per cent. of the population in the towns are Jews. Poverty and the political persecution of the Jews in Russia are bringing yearly new floods of Jews to the more industrially developed Poland.

"Not that the Poles are under the influence of "the old nightmare that the Jews are exploiters; parasites, living on the organism of the other nation," which has prompted similar boycotts in other countries. Nor is it like the anti-Semitism of Germany where the rivalry between the Jewish merchant class and the gentile does not greatly excite the mass of the working people.

"The Jews in Poland are a hard-working population; artisans, workingmen, unskilled laborers, small traders, and pedlers who are necessary for the distribution of goods, from the bulk of the Jewish people. The number of Jewish capitalists is a limited one and will probably not exceed the percentage of Polish and German capitalists. The landowners and the officials are naturally gentiles. Nobody among the Poles claims that the boycott is directed against Jewish social excesses. It is a national struggle in all its barbarous nudity and shamelessness. The Polish majority is organizing itself to expel from the country the Jewish minority, which became an important factor in economic competition. It is not a question of right, but a question of power. Whether it is morally right and historically justified is not to the point. The Jewish people, which is the minority, must be extirpated in the process of national revival of the Poles."

In the cities we read, the Gentile artisans and workingmen are "competitors with the Jews."

"They are all, therefore, trying to take away from him his bread and his work through the boycott organization. 'Every man shall keep to his own,' is the characteristic war-cry. The boycott in Poland is based on real interests and opposition, on a national and racial war, which is in its essence a social and cultural one."

Last, but worst of all from the Jewish standpoint, the boycott movement in Poland has a patriotic basis. Naturally, says Dr. Syrkin, the despised Jew is not a Polish patriot "and is mostly indifferent to the national struggle which Poland is leading against Russia." He is not a particularly ardent supporter of the Polish language and culture. Jews in Poland, and especially those who are coming from Lithuania and the Petrikau districts, "are not a resisting force against the policy of Russification which the Russian Government is leading." And the writer continues:

"The Jews are therefore accused of being alien and unpatriotic element in Poland, which is an obstacle to the national unity and political revival of Poland. The boycott movement is further nourished by Jewish indifference to Polish patriotism."

Bad as the situation now is, from the Hebrew standpoint, it is likely to be worse, concludes Dr. Syrkin, pessimistically:

"The boycott movement is in the germinating stage of its development. It is growing in intensity in Poland and spreading beyond the frontiers of Poland. It is the most pernicious form of anti-Semitism, not of transitory character, but is organizing itself to even stronger and more dangerous blows. And the greatest tragedy that the five millions of Jews in Russia are helpless and bewildered, watching the gathering clouds of the coming storm."

EXECUTIONER'S PAY

James Berry was not so well paid for his services as his French confrere, M. Antoine Bibber, who draws $560 a year, while his four assistants have a similar amount to divide between them. Samson, the first executioner to wield the guillotine, was originally paid $1,520 a year, but when executioners were appointed in each department this was reduced to $800. Before the revolution the legal tariff in France was 25s for a beheading. 16s 8d for a burning at the stake, and the present penalty for hanking with allowances for the fixation of a scaffold or the provision of fuel. One of James Berry's precedecessors for a brief period donned a uniform when at work. In 1785, according to contemporary chroniclers, the Sheriffs of London were "so pleased with the excellent mode in which Edward Dennis, their hangman, performed his duties that the presented him with a very elegant official robe—a kirtle, in fact, as Eastern potentates term a similar garb of honor. Dennis found this incumbrance useful when at work . . . and sold it to a well known character, Old Cain, who, having set up as a fortune-teller, wanted a robe to complete the costume in which he received dupes."

RIVERS BEATS CROSS IN TWENTY FURIOUS ROUNDS

New York Denfist Has a Marked Advantage in Five While the Mexican Leads in Thirteen—After Being Knocked Down Twice, Former Shows Remarkable Recuperative Powers.

Los Angeles, Nov. 28.—Joe Rivers, the Mexican pugilist, defeated Leach Cross, the New York lightweight, in 20 rounds of fighting at the Vernon Arena yesterday. After two knockdowns in the fourth and twelfth rounds, Cross showed marvelous recuperative powers, and fought brilliantly, but could not overcome the lead. Rivers won by consistent and vicious milling. Cross had a marked advantage in the five rounds, while Rivers led in 13. Referee George Blake's decision was popular with the crowd.

The most spectacular of the 20 rounds was the 19th, when, apparently tired and beaten, Cross electrified his supporters by leaping after Rivers, and fighting him off his feet. At the bell the Mexican was hanging on.

Rivers' first knock down was scored in the fourth, with a short left hook to the jaw. Cross remained down for the count of nine. Rivers repeated this feat in the twelfth, flooring Cross with right and left swings to the face. Cross was plainly dazed, and once more took the count of nine.

ROYAL CURLING CLUB GETS OFF TO EXCELLENT START

Thirty-five Skips Elected at Special Meeting—New Schedule for Season to Be Issued in Few Days and Stane and Besom Will Be Requisition.

The Royal Curling club got off to a good start last night when it elected 32 skips at a special meeting in the rink on Twenty-first street. This was the first gun to be fired and from now on the Royal's rink on Twenty-first street will be the scene of a whole lot of curling activity. Within the next few days the new schedule for the year will be drawn up and before next week is over it is confidently expected that stane and broom will be at it again and the season's play successfully got under way.

The ice itself last night was in such excellent shape that a good many members were there present at the meeting could not wait for the regular schedule to begin. A half a dozen friendly games were played then and there.

Every body seem anxious to get into shape as soon as possible for the series which is soon to open. The "roarin' game" has certainly got some devoted followers at the Twenty-first street rink.

The result of last night's election of skips is as follows:

Dr. Darling, J. E. Wallbridge, J. Dunlop, E. H. Simpson, T. E. Lancaster, L. R. Rix, E. Smallan, Percy W. Abbott, J. Madill, H. McDermott, J. Moir, F. S. Watson, Charles May, R. B. McClelsh, F. L. Bradburn, Dr. Fields, E. H. Garrison, J. Rae, Dr. Broad, E. L. Fuller, L. A. Howard, George Speers, George M. Freeze, E. H. McAvoy, J. M. Clendinnin, J. R. McIntyre, C. L. Race, R. C. Macdonald, C. Young, L. A. Goodridge, Allen Harvie, J. Munro Hunter, Dr. Anderron, W. A. Irwin, and F. A. Dickson.

NO ORGANIZED HOCKEY IN MARITIME PROVINCES

Game in Disorganized Condition and Sufficient Clubs May Not Get Together.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 28.—There has been very little going on in hockey circles hereabouts since the annual meeting of the M.P.H.A., and it would not be surprising if there was no organized hockey in the Province this winter. Sydney and the Halifax Crescents are ready to go ahead and Glace Bay is willing to place a team in the league if there are four teams. New Glasgow say they will not go in the league unless Halifax pays them more expenses on their visits to the city. Last year, to keep the league intact, Halifax paid New Glasgow $80 for each of the four trips here. This year they took the stand they would not contribute to any team's expenses. New Glasgow now wants $100 a game, or declare they will retire from the league, which they will be allowed to do as far as Halifax is concerned. The difficulties between the Socials and the Arena management have not yet been settled. The latter declare they are offering smaller terms than any other rink in Canada, while the Socials say that under the terms they would not be able to place a team in the league which would make a creditable showing. It is understood there is a difference of 10 per cent. in the offer and demand, and the Arena management claim it would not be a paying venture for them to grant the percentage asked. A final decision is to be reached this week, but the present outlook is not very favorable.

DILLON BEATS PETROSKEY.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 28—Jack Dillon easily defeated Sailor Petroskey in their 12-round bout here yesterday. The Indianapolis man was too fast and clever for the marine, and in the eighth round floored him with a right uppercut that would have stopped a less game fighter than Petroskey. The sailor took punishment and fought hard all the time, but did not land an effective blow.

TAIT'S TEAM ARE THE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Lively Fifteen Game Series Comes to Conclusion at Young Men's Christian Association.

The evening basketball league for senior young men closed last week after a lively 15 game schedule. Mr. Tait's team turned out to be the surprise package of the games. Four of the young athletes had little experience at basketball, but under the careful direction and coaching of Captain Tait, who has had more than 20 years experience at the basketball business, they were able to win every game they played.

Fast and pretty combination work was developed to a very high degree, and great credit is due the boys for their excellent showing. Drummond at centre played perhaps the best all-round game during the series.

STRONG TEAM FOR 'PEG'S MONARCHS

Large Number of Well Known Players Are Turning Out With the Club for Practice.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—The Winnipeg Monarchs are going to have a strong team this year. There is a large number of men turning out with the club for practise, some of them well-known in Manitoba hockey. They figure on making a big splash this year. Following are the men that are turning out with the team:

Goal—Harry Stuart, of last year's team, and Albert Lloyd, who played regularly for their intermediates in 1911, and also in a few senior battles.

Point—Alex. Irvine, of last year's team, and Glen Lounsbu, the stalky point and captain of the Strathcona last winter.

Cover Point—Del Irvin, of last year's seven, and Bill Borland, has been playing for London during the past winter in the O. H. A.

Rover—Steamer Maxwell of last year septette; McArthur and McKay, both of senior eastern seconds.

Centre—Dolly Gray, of last winter's team; Dick Irvine, who, while playing centre ice for the Strathcona last season was the leading goal-getter of the Independent league; Merc. Walker, who has played intermediate hockey for a number of years, will also make a strong bid for this position.

Right Wing—Reg. Hay, of last season's seven, and Wilmot Turner, of the Strong Strathcona team of 1912.

Left Wing—Stan. Marples, of last year's regular seven, and Klemmer, formerly of South Falls. Oldrieve, of the Edmonton Eskimos, is also out after a place on the left wards.

The officers of the club have the promise of several other likely players, and these, together with the above list should give the selection committee a busy time choosing their teams.

RED DEER HOCKEY CLUB IS FORMED

Team Will Be Entered in the Intermediate—Decision is to Organize a City League.

Red Deer, Alta., Nov. 28.—At a large and enthusiastic meeting of hockey supporters here last night it was decided to form a hockey club and enter a team in the intermediate section of the A.A.H.A., to be grouped as the association desired.

As an incentive to get all the hockey players interested it was decided to form a city league from which players will be drafted for the association team. Red Deer will only have an open air rink this winter, but we are assured by the city fathers that a palatial covered rink would be built in readiness for the following season.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Hon. president, E. E. Michener, M.P.P.; hon. vice-presidents, R. B. Wellwright, W. E. Lord; president, J. G. Gillespie; vice-president, S. V. Day; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Lewis; and an executive composed of three representatives of the city league clubs.

RHODES REGULATION NOT UNREASONABLE

Age Limit Will Only Occasionally Affect Students of That Class.

London, Nov. 28.—Mr. Wylie, secretary of the Rhodes Trust at Oxford, who in Dr. G. R. Faridn's absence speaks authoritatively, does not take a serious view of the new regulations and sends me the following message:

"The age limit in athletics is not unreasonable and will only occasionally affect Rhodes scholars. To resent the exclusion from freshman's sports is also unintelligible."

Mr. Vassal, formerly president of the Oxford University Athletic Club, says the primary object of the new rules is to encourage the average public school boy, who comes into residence at Oxford at 18 or 19, to devote himself more closely to athletics. Answering the suggestion that Rhodes scholars are badly treated, Mr. Vassal says any Glasgow or Edinburgh university man would be equally ruled out of freshman's sports. The rule is aimed impartially at all students of any scholastic establishment who comes to Oxford at an age greater than that of the average public school boy.

KING GEORGE STILL HOPEFUL.

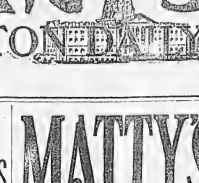

London, Nov. 28.—Though the king's winnings on the turf this season far from covered the expenses of the stable, he has decided to see if the luck will turn his way next year. Meantime, his majesty is turning his attention to steeplechasers, several of which are being trained at Whittakers establishment at Royston.

LOGAN LOSES TO CLABBY.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Jimmy Clabby, the Hammond, Ind., middleweight, defeated Frank Logan in the 14th round of a scheduled 20 round fight here yesterday. Referee Griffin stopped the unequal bout.

MATTY'S BIG LEAGUE GOSSIP

BY CHRISTY MATHEWSON
THE GIANTS' STAR PITCHER

So they have turned poor old "Bill" Dahlen out of Brooklyn. His case proves that you have got to be a winner in baseball to stick — not that "Billy" was needed as an example to demonstrate this theory. That is the reason that so many star players dodge the jobs of managers when they are offered to them. If they don't make good and are turned out, there is no other baseball prospect for them as a rule except, perhaps, as a minor league manager. Most stars would rather trail along with their old club in an advisory capacity.

While Dahlen did not make good in a sense, he improved the Brooklyn club during his four year term and appeared to be just on the verge of collecting on the players he had bunched when he got fired. The only players with the Brooklyn team today who were on the roster when Dahlen took charge are Hummel, Rucker and Wheat. It will therefore be seen that Dahlen has made good in selecting players, as he has gathered several stars under his management. His trouble was probably doing too well at the beginning of the last season. He had his club up there fighting with Philadelphia for first place and all the Brooklyn fans were talking pennant. When it fell back and was passed by Boston, the Brooklyn rooters were naturally very much disappointed and started to knock, as rooters will.

It strikes me that Wilbert Robinson, the new Brooklyn manager, about whom I shall have something to say in my next letter, should have a fair assortment of talent to start with, and I would not be surprised to see the club finish in the first division next season. There are liable to be several changes in the looks of the first division next year, as the Boston team, under George Stallings, has a great chance to land there and, if these two teams do make it, then some of the regular tenants are going to be crowded for room. The Cubs, Giants, Pittsburg, and either Philadelphia or Cincinnati have accumulated the habit of finishing in the first division.

When Frank Chance took hold of the Cubs, he inherited a great bunch of ball players gathered by Frank Selee, his predecessor. The team was just ripe to win, and Chance got all the glory. Of course, Chance was also a great leader, but he does not deserve the credit for gathering the marvellous Cub machine that won so many championships for him. There are two types of men in baseball, the kind that can pick good players, but cannot develop them, and the kind that can get the baseball out of latent talent. Of course, the ideal combination in a manager is the men who can not only pick the players but also develop them and get the baseball out of them. All the great leaders have these two qualities. McGraw, "Connie" Mack, and Fred Clarke possess them in an exaggerated degree if that is possible.

Personally, I do not see why Dahlen did not carry the punch, because he was always one of the shrewdest players that ever wore uniform. I know this because I played on the same team with him for several years and saw him pull off plays that required lightning thinking. I don't see why he should not be able both to lead and develop players. But it would not surprise me to see the next manager of Brooklyn take Dahlen's collection of talent and make a good showing with it, and "Bill" get very little credit. I have a soft place in my heart for Dahlen, because he was always a game ball player and a good one.

Frequently, the fast thinking ball players do not make the best managers because they think too fast for their men and have not the ability to transmit their knowledge. There has been some talk of "Ty" Cobb as the manager of the St. Louis Browns. Cobb is a wonderfully fast thinking ball player, but he collaries too rapidly for the other members of his team as well as his opponents, as a rule, and this has been responsible for much of the trouble, real and rumored, in which Cobb has been mixed up on the Detroit club. Cobb outguesses his own men as well as the others, and he is temperamental and has little patience with slow thinking. It is this quality that he would have to overcome in order to be a successful manager. Hal Chase was of the same type and failed for this reason. His own men could not follow his individual work.

I do not think that there is a chance of Cobb going to St. Louis for several reasons. One is that he is getting an enormous salary in Detroit, and he has only his own worries there, which are sufficient when the game is played as he plays it. If he should attempt to lead a club, he would have the worries of the whole team as well as his own. It would doubtless hurt his playing, and there is no question but that he would be a playing manager for several years. Then again, there there are no players in St. Louis that the Tigers would look at in a trade for Cobb, and they could not afford to take anything but players. The Georgia star is getting an enormous salary, but he is worth much more than the money he draws at the gate each season. None knows it better than the Detroit management. There is not a chance of Cobb going to St. Louis or any place else.

Recently I have noticed references in the newspapers to the extreme youth of John P. Mitchell, the new mayor elect of New York. The papers speak of his age as that of a boy, and say that he is just beginning his career, and that he has many years of youth ahead of him.

That is the difference between baseball and politics. I am just about Mr. Mitchell's age, his being 34. There is not a year's difference between us, yet they always speak of me as the moss-covered veteran. Baseball is certainly a business that feeds on youth.

"Matty's Big League Gossip" is a regular feature of this paper. It appears on the sporting page every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

SOUTH SIDE ATHLETIC CLUB'S FIRST PRACTICE

High Levels Turn Out in Goodly Numbers and Embrace Some Fast Ones.

The new high level rink on the south side was the scene last night of the South Side Athletic club's first hockey practice of the season. A large number of last year's players were in uniform while with them could be seen several new-comers who to a great extent are dark horses but of whom much is expected, in fact the hope of the club hang to a great extent upon the manner in which two or three of these new comers shape up; they are fast men and with them it is hoped that the failend experience of last year will not be repeated

BAD BLOOD

IS THE DIRECT CAUSE OF

Pimples.

Pimples break out on the face and body, and it is impossible to get rid of them, unless you cleanse the blood of all of its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt, the very best medicine for this purpose.

This old, and reliable medicine has been in use for nearly forty years, and has a reputation unequalled by any other preparation for removing all the impurities from the blood and banishing the pimples.

Mr. Edward Paquette, Navan Centre, Ont., writes:—"One month ago my face was covered with pimples and a rash. I had tried a number of these so called blood purifiers with no avail. Seeing an almanac of yours in which you strongly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, I decided to try a bottle, and after I had taken it I could see a decided change, and after using three bottles more all the pimples had completly disappeared."

VICTORY GOES TO CORNELL'S TEAM

Defeats University of Pennsylvania by Score of 21 to 0 in Football Contest.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Cornell closed her erratic season yesterday afternoon by defeating the University of Pennsylvania for the second time in the 21 years the two teams have met in football contests. The score was 21 to 6.

It was a glorious victory for the Ithacans, and it was joyously celebrated by the 3,600 students who came down from Ithaca to see the annual battle. Cornell's only other victory against Pennsylvania was in 1901, when the big red team won by the score of 23 to 6. In 1906 the teams played a scoreless tie.

With the exception of punting and forward passing Cornell showed superiority in every department of the game. Her ability to advance the ball through the line and her quickness in fathoming Pennsylvania's intricate plays surprised the followers of the Quakers. The home eleven tried everything it had in the way of new and old football and Cornell was always there to stop it, with one conspicuous exception.

This was in the third period, when Capt. Young, of Pennsylvania, ran 42 yards after receiving the ball from Chester Minds on a delayed pass. It was the longest run of the game.

WILLIAMS WHIPS LODIMAN.

Milwaukee, Nov. 28.—"Kid" Williams, of Baltimore, easily outpointed Dick Lodiman, of Newcastle, Pa., in a ten-round, no decision boxing contest at 118 pounds here yesterday.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 28.—Carlisle won its third football victory from Brown in their annual contest yesterday by 13 to 0.

At Dickenson—Dickenson, 0; Lafayette, 7.

At Georgetown — Georgetown, 16; Holy Cross, 7.

BROOKLYN NATIONALS TO TRAIN AT AUGUSTA

Wilbert Robinson Announces That He Selected Grounds for the "Rookies."

New York, Nov. 28.—Wilbert Robinson, the new manager of the Brooklyn National League team, announced his training place for next season at a luncheon attended by officers of the Brooklyn club and newspapermen today. The "Rookies" will start for Augusta, Ga., on February 20, and the regulars on March 1. The team will remain in the southern camps until March 25, and then will work its way north, playing exhibition games, and arrive home on April 1.

Games will be played here with the New York and Philadelphia Americans and Newark of the International League. It was stated that Governor Tener of Pennsylvania, who is slated to be th next president of the National League, had promised to throw out the first ball at Ebbets Field next season. Manager Robinson caught for Mr. Tener when the latter broke in as a pitcher.

Robinson said he would be on the lookout for several experienced big leaguers, one or two right-handed batters to alternate with the present left-handers in the outfield and would follow generally the system of John J. McGraw and Ned Hanlon.

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Didier Pitre, who has been exchanged to the Pacific coast hockey team for "Neway" Lelonde by the Canadians, came to terms with the Patricks yesterday. The French player will draw a salary of $1,600 for the season, out of which he will have to pay his own transportation both ways. Pitre is said to have notified the Patricks that he would leave Montreal on Sunday night. He was one of the stars of the Canadians a year ago and should make good in the west

REAL BASKETBALL WILL BE PLAYED HERE ON TUESDAY

Game Between Calgary and Edmonton Promises to Be a Lively Contest.

ALTHOUGH HANDICAPPED EDMONTON SHOULD WIN

Visitors Will Have Real Wonder at Defence — Weighs 206 Though But 15 Years Old.

Tuesday morning will find the Calgary Intermediate basketball team in this city for a return match to be played in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium the same evening. The Edmonton club visited the southern city a few weeks ago and lost their game by the score 17-34. This score has not by any means discouraged the Edmonton boys who, with the addition of a couple of men, have now a team to be proud of. At centre for the local boys will be Crozier (Johnie Crow) who demonstrated at Calgary that he could get the ball whenever he chose. The defence positions are extra well filled by Stanton and Watson. Watson should hold the Calgary man down which caused the downfall of the Edmonton team in the last game. The forwards will be Whitelaw and Butchart.

The visiting Calgary team will have a real wonder playing the defence. He weighs around 206 pounds and is only 15 years of age. To see this boy play will be worth the price of admission itself. The Calgary team has an abundance of combination but what they will do with it on the Y. M. floor here which is smaller than the Calgary floor) remains to be seen.

The basketball game will be the main event of the evening but there is a large program besides. Dalburton, the crack runner of the Y.M.C.A. and Shepard also of the Y.M.C.A. will run a potato race. As both these men are dominion champions in several running events the race will be looked forward to with some interest. Another of the events will be an exhibition on the horizontal bar by five especially good men. One event on the program will be a novel one, that is, an indoor baseball game. Those who have not seen the indoor game played should take this opportunity as it is just as interesting as the outdoor game. Managers of next year's ball teams should be on hand as there are a lot of players who have not signed up for the coming season. Besides these numbers on the program there will be others just as interesting.

SWIMMING GALA AT THE "Y" POOL TONIGHT

Good Program Has Arranged for Event—Some Excellent Races Looked For.

This evening at 8.30 p.m. a good program will be run off. The races are expected to be even better than last week's, and a good turnout of swimmers is expected, Borsdorf, who won the 75 yards handicap from Hoine in 1 minute 3 seconds will swim in the 100 yards handicap, and it is expected that he will make a good time considering he has only learnt to swim this summer.

The winners of the 100 yards last week were Kirk, 1 minute 23 seconds, and Hoine, 1 minute 22 1-5 seconds, should provide some sport.

If the relay race is as close as that held last Friday, when Kennedy's team won from Crockett's by a touch, it should prove very interesting.

The program is as follows:

100 Yards Final.

Start 6, Kirk' stime, 1 min. 23 secs, Start 5, Hoine's time, 1 min, 22 1-5 secs,

50 Yards Handicap.

A relay race to pick a team to go to the provincial championships at Calgary. Fancy swimming and diving. Waterpolo. Male spectators invited free of charge.

CHANGES SUGGESTED IN RULES OF RUGBY.

Toronto, Nov. 28—The following from the Star will be of interest to Alberta rugby fans:

As it is quite possible that there will be some changes made in the rugby rules in either the Canadian or Intercollegiate series, some suggestions drawn from the present American rules may be of interest. For example, the rule regarding holding is of interest. It reads:

Section (1) After the ball has been put in play:

(a) The player carrying the ball may ward off opponents with his hands and arms, but no other player of the side in possession of the ball should hold or use his hands or arms (except with the arms close to the body), to obstruct an opponent, this prohibition includes:

(1) Grasping an opponent with the hands or arms.

(2) Placing the hands upon an opponent to keep him away from a play.

(3) Encircling in any degree any part of an opponent with the arm.

(4) Using the arms in any way to life an opponent in blocking. Penalty —loss of 15 yards.

(5) Players of the side not in possession of the ball may use their hands and arms to get at the ball or the player carrying it, but shall not tackle or in any other way hold their opponents except in an actual attempt to get at or tackle the player who is carrying the ball. Penalty—loss of 5 yards.

Note—If a violation of this rule is committed when neither side is in possession of the ball, the ball shall go to the offended side as first down at the point of the foul.

Section 2: If the side in possession of the ball picks:

(a) Players of said side who have crossed the line of scrimmage may use their hands and arms to push opponents out of the way in order to get at the ball or the player carrying it.

(b) Players of the side which did not put the ball in play may use (1) their hands and arms to push opponents out of the way in order to get at the ball, and (2) their bodies to obstruct opponents who are going down the field from getting at the player of their own side who is endeavoring to get at the ball or who is carrying it. Penalties same as section 1.

A rule somewhat similar to this would make an excellent amendment to the present rules, and would enable officials to enforce easily what is already outlined to them.

An interesting penalty in the American rules is that inflicted for striking with the fist, kneeing, kicking, meeting with the knee, striking with the locked hands, or with the heel of the hand. Not only does this call for the disqualification of the player, but a loss by the offending team of one-half the distance to its own goal line.

Another rule says: A player when tackling an opponent must have at least one foot on the ground. The penalty is the loss of 5 yards from the spot where the foul occurred.

PROPOSE TO BUILD DOMINION HOUSE IN HEART OF LONDON

Scheme Which Calls for Erection of Handsome Home for Various Overseas Governments is Being Worked Hard for by Earl Grey.

The latest picture received from Great Britain shows admirably the site of the proposed Dominion House, in the heart of London. Earl Grey proposes to place under one roof all the offices of the various provinces of Canada, and to this end has secured an option on the site shown above. He and his friends are of the opinion that such a building, which would contain exhibits of the products of the various provinces, would be of inestimable benefit to Canada as a means of stimulating interimperial trade, and would prove of mutual advantage, to Great Britain and to Canada.

This building which would be thoroughly representative of Canada in every feature, would be known as Dominion House. It is proposed to establish it on the Aldwych site, which would enable the governments of the self-governing dominion and its various provinces to concentrate on one central site their offices, now widely distributed in different parts of London. It is said that if this was done, it would enable the English consumer's attention to be focussed effectively and impressively upon the products of the Overseas Dominions, which fact would permit the manufacturers of the United Kingdom to ascertain and meet the requirements of a Greater Britain.

The establishment of this Canadian centre close to the heart throb of the world's metropolis, would remind the thousands which pass this point daily of the great lands over the seas.

An option at $3,000 per annum on the site has been secured, and guaranteed by Earl Grey. This parcel of land contains about 125,000 square feet, or more than two acres, and it is as near the exact centre of London as it would be possible to determine it. It is near the chief public buildings, the hotels and theatres, and it is not probable that such an admirable site will ever be secured for this purpose again in London. Under the terms of the lease the land can be secured on a long term lease or can be bought outright. It has been suggested that the Canadian government could buy or lease the property, or this might be done by a private company with the understanding that the Canadian Government occupy the premises. In addition to having the offices of all the various provinces it is also proposed to have here a permanent exhibition of the products of the Dominion. The value of such an undertaking is obvious. Australia has already secured a portion of the site and is erecting a building thereon which will be commensurate with the dignity and importance of Australia in the sisterhood of the British dominions. It is now time to say those who favor the scheme, that Canada do the same. At the present time the Canadian offices are not such, as would engender a feeling of pride in Canadians, who visit or reside permanently in London. This scheme will provide for the establishment of a building which will be wholly commensurate with the importance of the position which Canada enjoys in the British Empire.

Discussing the scheme, Lord Grey [illegible]: "The business man, politician, traveller, student, writer, or emigrant, will wishes to make inquiries about various parts of the Empire, discovers that there is no single centre of information to which he can apply, but that he has to make the round of a number of offices which are scattered haphazard about the metropolis. The London Post Office Directory gives the following list of Dominion agencies:—

Canada—17 Victoria street, S.W.

New Brunswick—37 Southampton street, Strand, W.C.

Nova Scotia—57a P. H. Mall.

Prince Edward Island—199 Ashley Gardens, Westminster.

New South Wales—123 and 125 Cannon street, E.C.

Victoria—Melbourne Place, Strand.

South Australia—85 Gracechurch street, E.C.

Queensland—409 and 410 Strand, W.C.

West Australia—13 Victoria street, S.W.

Tasmania—26 Victoria street, S.W.

New Zealand—13 Victoria street, S.W.

South Africa—32 Victoria street, S.W.

Quebec—36 Kingsway, W.C.

British Columbia—Salisbury House, E.C.

Ontario Bulgration office—165 Strand, W.C.

"The Dominion agencies have been created for the purpose of transacting the business of the Dominions. Now the fact that the business of the Dominions is carried on by sixteen or more agencies, which are scattered up and down town, makes neither for the efficiency nor for economy. Being cramped for space, the agencies are to some extent compelled to restrict their activities to the daily routine work. For instance, they cannot advertise the importance and the wealth of their territories, their advantages, and their requirements by occasional exhibitions on the official premises, to which they can entice the people by suitable entertainment.

"The official domiciles of the Dominions in London were perhaps adequate in the days of their youth and impecuniousness. Now they hamper and inconvenience them. Their humble unpretentiousness and their dreary dinginess create an unfavorable impression at the first moment. Their appearance acts upon the visitor like a shabby coat, and it does not pay to make a bad impression at one's first meeting. Money spent on outward appearance, within the limits set by Polonius, is well spent. At present, if combined action and several agencies is required, much time is necessarily wasted in writing letters from one department to another, in sending messengers, in making appointments, in arranging meetings, in going to and fro.

"The Dominion agencies in London, like the British Empire, have not been planned, but have grown up haphazard, and the time seems to have arrived when the representation of the Dominions in London should be organized, and when all the representatives and their staff should be housed in a worthy building that is a credit to the Dominion and to the Empire. The Dominion agencies should be housed under one roof, not merely because a single Dominion house would symbolize the essential unity of the Empire, but also because such concentration would be very advantageous for all practical purposes. The central domicile of the Dominions should be an imposing and impressive building, and it should occupy the choicest and the most central position in London. It should be a great landmark, it should dominate the entire district in which it is situated, and should imprint upon it its character so as to advertise the grandeur and significance of the great Dominions far and wide."

Drinking Men's Wives

You can save your drinking husbands and sons by giving them the Neal Treatment. Your husbands may be tickling the drink habit with all their power but when the irresistible craving for alcoholic stimulants comes on they cannot resist and the result is another "big drunk." No doubt they are discouraged by repeated failures to slop of their own accord. With a certain failure and ruin staring them in the face you should act for them at once and send them to the Neal Institute. The Neal Treatment is a safe, sure vegetable remedy that removes the craving for drink in three days without the use of hypodermic injections. Call and get satisfactory proofs and references, or write or phone for booklet of information.

HUNTING ELEPHANTS A DANGEROUS GAME

Roosevelt States it to Be Not Only Hard Work But Big Animal is Worst of Big Game to Hunt.

Elephant-hunting in addition to being ordinarily very hard work, is often dangerous. As I have elsewhere said, experienced hunters often differ widely in their estimates as to how the different kinds of dangerous game rank as foes. There are many men who regard elephants as the most dangerous of all; and again there are many others who regard the lion and the buffalo as beyond comparison more formidable. My own view is that there is a very wide range of individual variation among the individuals of each species, and moreover that the conditions of country and surroundings vary so that one must be very cautious about generalizing. Judging partly from my own limited experience and partly from a very careful sifting of the statements of many good observers with far wider experience, I believe that, taking the average of a large number of cases under varied conditions, the lion is the most dangerous; that a buffalo that does charge, especially a bull, when it has actually begun its charge is more dangerous than an elephant; that a single elephant is less dangerous to attack than a single buffalo, and that the charge of an elephant is more easily stopped or evaded than that of a buffalo; but that elephants are very much more apt themselves to attack than are buffalo, and that therefore there is more danger in the first approach to an elephant herd than is the case with buffalo. If a big bull is in a herd of cows it may be impossible to kill him, because the cows charge with such savageness as soon as they detect the approach of the hunter—and of course a herd is much more apt than a single beast to detect him. At the sound of a shot the cows of a vicious herd, screaming and trumpeting crash through the jungle in all directions, and may quarter to and fro down wind, trying to catch the scent of their enemy. If a man is caught he is frequently killed, but often he escapes, for the very hugeness of an elephant's bulk makes it difficult to cope with so small an antagonist.—From "The Life History of the African Elephant," by Theodore Roosevelt, in the October Scribner.

NOT AGAINST C.P.R.

London, Nov. 28—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says the budget committee of the Reichsrath rejected by sharge majority a resolution aimed directly against the C.P.R. This resolution which was proposed by the Christian Socialists was to the effect that hte grant of concession to the Canadian Pacific which is not only a shipping but principally a foreign speculation company had accentuated malpractices connected with immigration from Austria.

Montreal Stocks.

Montreal, Nov. 28.—Left largely to its its own devices on account of the closing of New York over the holiday, the local stock market displayed a quietly strong tone in most departments yesterday. Net gains outnumbered losses at the close, and as the advices took place largely in stocks of market importance and declines in inactive issues, the atmosphere of the market was more cheerful. C.P.R. advanced to 226 and closed that price bid. Power advanced to 212 and closed 211½ bid. Brazilian was 74 higher at 87, and closed 86⅝ or ⅜ up. Richelieu, affected by the special influence of favorable reports as to the position of new interest was the strongest and most active stock of the day, rising 2½ to 109½ and finishing with a net gain of 2 points on dealings in about 1,400 shares. Cement common was the principal stock to show a weaker feeling, declining ¾ to 31 and closing offered at 31. Windsor Hotel fell to 97. Spanish River was heavy at 10½. Bonds were irregular.

Toronto Cattle.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Receipts at the union stock yards yesterday were 85 cars, with 1,228 cattle, 123 calves, 1,600 hogs and 1,016 sheep and lambs. The market continues to act strong, particularly for the choice butcher cattle, one lot of the choice heifers selling today at $8.90, while buyers are freely expressing their radiness to pay 6.90 or ven 900, if they can but get the quality desired. The difficulty is that there are very few choice cattle coming forward.

There was a little hesitation on the part of the buyers in climbing up the inferior lots at the prices asked, and in some cases slight concessions had to be made. The stocker trade holds firm, a feature of the buying this week being a fact that the most of the trade has been for home consumption, very few going over the board, as compared with the heavy export shipments of the past few weeks. Farmers are now trying to get these cattle for themselves, but find hat they have to pay very high prices for anything of fair quality. There was but little change in the lamb market, though a little easier tone towards the close.

Hogs were steady, though quoted by one dealer 10c lower than the previous day.

Yesterday's quotations: Butcher cattle, choice, 800 to 850; medium, 650 to 725; common, 550 to 600; butcher cows, choice, 825 to 850; good cows, 750 to 800; medium, 600 to 625; common, 350 to 400; butcher bulls, choice, 525 to 650; good bulls, 550 to 650; rough, 400; feeders, 540 to 665; feeding bulls, 370 to 450; stockers, 525 to 625; medium, 400 to 425; light, 350 to 400; milkers, choice, each, $60 to $100; common and medium, each $35 to $45; springers $50 to $65; spring lambs, $80; light ewes, 500 to 565; heavy, 325 to 350; bucks, 300 to 350.

Hogs, fed and watered, $8.50 to $60; off cars, $85.

Toronto Stocks.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—The local stock exchange continued its efforts to no business to the forenoon session yesterday and had no difficulty in handling what orders came in. The market was dull and inclined to be irregular. The improvement in Brazilian continued, and the stock closed half a point higher at 86½, after a very fair amount of the morning. Outside of the Brazilian the trading was largely of the pulled-hot variety. Dominion Steel Corporation shares were steady at 40, and Toronto Railway steady at 140. A strong industrial was Shredded wheat, which evidenced more demand, and sold up to 80, which is four points up from where it was a fortnight ago. 79½ was bid at the close. Richelieu was dull and closed higher at 106 bid exdividend, equal to 108 before ex-dividend.

Steel of Canada pfd. made a new low for the year at 816, but rallied to 83½.

In the banks some small lots of the dominion sold 2 points higher at 222

RETURN FROM THE WAR.

PALAEONTOLOGIST REPORTS RESULTS OF FIELDWORK

Discoveries in Red Deer District Surpass Those of 1912 Expedition.

The Vertebrate Palaeontologist of the Geological Survey reports that the results of the field party under Mr. C. H. Sternberg, during the past summer, on Red Deer river, Alberta, were remarkable and even surpass those of the expedition of 1912 in the Edmonton formation (uppermost Cretaceous) of the Red Deer River district. Last summer's field party explored the beds of the Belly River series, a lower horizon in the Cretaceous, and were successful in obtaining the skulls of a number of different species of dinosaurs with some of which more or less complete skeletons were found.

Over fifty large boxes, aggregating about 20 tons in weight and filling a freight car, were shipped to Ottawa early in October as the result of the season's work.

The most notable finds of dinosaurian remains in last summer's collection are as follows: The almost complete skeleton, with a magnificent skull, of the large flesh-eating dinosaur, Deinodon, which reached a length of about 30 feet. The greater part of the skeleton, with a skull over three feet long, of a plate-cutter Trachodont dinosaur belonging to a species which is probably new to science. Most of the skeleton of the herbivorous horned dinosaur Monoclonius belli, Lambe, with the skull which alone reaches a length of about five feet. A splendid skull, over five feet long, of the horned dinosaur Centrosaurus apertus, Lambe. A remarkable skull, nearly five and a half feet long, which brings to light a form of horned dinosaur probably representing a new genus.

The above are the most complete specimens of the large dinosaurs found last summer, but other equally interesting forms are represented in the collection by less perfect and spectacular material which bring clearly before our minds the wonderful diversity of the dinosaurian life of this particular interval of Cretaceous time during which the deposits of the Belly River formation were laid down.

A remarkable feature of last summer's collection is that, with some of the dinosaurian remains, large areas of skin impression were obtained revealing a surprising variety in the epidermal characters distinctive of the several species represented.

At the time of the deposition of the Belly River series of beds the country throughout a vast region east of the Rocky mountains, then being formed, was but slightly raised above sea-level and well wooded, as is proved by the large silicified trunks of trees found everywhere with the marine remains. Marshes and lakes abounded as well as sluggish streams which empty ted southward into the Cretaceous sea. The remarkable variety in the reptilian life of those times is splendidly represented by last summer's collection which, besides the remains of the different species of dinosaurs, includes many hundreds of specimens, more or less complete, of fishes, batrachians, plesiosaurs, turtles, rhynchocephalians and crocodiles. Primitive mammals also are represented by some small jaws holding teeth.

Some of the specimens represent species as yet undescribed, others add to our knowledge of little or imperfectly known forms. Prior to being described by the Vertebrate Palaeontologist the material of the collection will be prepared for study and exhibition by Mr. Sternberg and his skilled assistants in the laboratory of the Geological Survey.

The collection of last summer from Red Deer river will add greatly to our knowledge of the fauna of the Belly river formation, and to the attractiveness of the exhibit in the Hall of Fossil Vertebrates.

The very perfect skeleton of the 32 foot Trachodon from the Edmonton formation of Alberta, placed on exhibition in the Museum, during the past summer, has received particular attention from visiting scientists and the general public. The addition of so many large and equally attractive specimens to the exhibit in the near future heralds a decided advance in the usefulness of the Museum of the Geological Survey as an educational factor of prime importance.

No provision has been made by the garbage collectors for removing the ashes from Woodstock churches. The idea is that they might well be kept there as a permanent illustration for the fire and brimstone sermons.

Sir Thomas Lipton thinks he will lift the cup this time. As we understand

OMIT THE WORD "OBEY."

The marriage of brides who are not asked to promise to obey their husbands is more frequent than is supposed. Dr. Clifford points out that he and many other Free Church ministers do not include the vow of obedience in their marriage service, but the Society of Friends has never imposed such a vow on its women, and in years gone by Friends suffered imprisonment for refusing to conform to the orthodox marriage service. There are cases on record of bridegrooms being fined in pennas on account of this defiance of the law on the part of bride and bridegroom. The followers of Fox persevered in their refusal until at length a law was passed legalizing their simple marriage undertaking. One result of the attitude of the Friends in this matter in the perfect record of marriage registration which they established. They have an unbroken record of the marriages registers of their community. Probably no other religious body, certainly not the Established Church, can say the same.—Town Topics.

C.P.R MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR GREAT CAMPAIGN

Convention of Colonization Agents Arrange for Increased Movement of American Farmers.

A convention of great importance and of future influence on the development of Western Canada was held yesterday, when the Canadian Pacific railway colonization agents, covering the territory from Portland, Oregon, to Portland, Maine, and the international boundary to Mexico, under the direction of J. S. Dennis, assistant to the president, gathered to discuss ways and means for an active and important colonization campaign during the ensuing year. The agents were all seemly enthusiastic over the prospects in their territories for a continued and increasing movement of the best class of American farmers to the Canadian west. The new terms under which the railway sells lands to practical farmers on 20 year payments and assists them with a loan of $2,000 is just beginning to be understood by the American farmers and it is predicted that it will result in an unprecedented movement to Western Canada. An active publicity campaign will be continued in the United States, including 50 motion picture reels depicting the life scenery and development of Western Canada and also lectures by speakers thoroughly conversant with Canadian conditions. Stereoptican views illustrating the country, will also be carried into the farmers' homes.

The C.P.R. exhibit at the land show now in progress at Chicago is pronounced by visitors to be the finest ever made by the company and is rivalled only by the huge display of the United States government.

STREET RAILWAY NOTES

The Packing Plant line, known as route No. 1, lost 10 minutes on the headway yesterday during the rush hours. To avoid this in future, the department is arranging to put on extra cars during the busy hours and give the men an extra 15 minutes to make the trip, which is scheduled to two hours.

The south side cars were operated yesterday without interruption. Special cars were out last night to take care of the big crowd that was out at McKenzie's Lake, where the band was in attendance. When the crowd demands it a five-minute schedule is being operated on the high level cars.

The Nelson avenue belt line is now successfully operating. A slight change will be made in this line. At the present time two cars run each way around the loop, taking 30 minutes to make the trip. In order to run to the schedule during the busy hours, one car, superintendent states that he will put on three cars to run each way and give the motorman an extra quarter of an hour on the schedule.

For the first time the street cars are operating today on 24th street, from Albany north to Alberta avenue. This part of the system has been held up for copper wire. As soon as the Interurban is ready to operate its cars will connect with the city's cars at 24th and Alberta.

A telephone booth is being fitted at the corner of Jasper and First street, where the department will keep an inspector constantly on duty. Any citizen having a complaint to make or desiring any information will get it by ringing up this inspector. The work should be complete and the line operating within the next couple of days.

The department is arranging slight variations in the various schedules, that the cars may not bunch together so much along Jasper avenue. These changes will not necessarily affect the running time of the various routes

FIFTY DOLLARS FINE FOR SPEEDY DRIVING

P. E. McDonald, Fined $20 for Lack of Lights, Mulcted Again.

Fifty dollars and costs, was the fine imposed by Magistrate Massie yesterday afternoon in the police court in the case of P. E. McDonald, who was fined $20 and costs in the morning, for driving his auto without the necessary lighted lamps. The charge in the afternoon was that he was driving his auto in such a manner as to endanger the lives of the public. Notice of appeal was given at the close of the case.

Mrs. J. H. Holford, who was injured in the accident, caused by the collision of McDonald's auto and the buggy in which she was driving, is still in the hospital, where she is slowly improving. It is understood that as soon as Mrs. Holford's condition will permit, a claim for damages will be made.

BOYS' EFFICIENCY TESTS ADVOCATED

National Secretary Statten Talks to Edmonton Teachers.

Yesterday afternoon in the McKay avenue school, Taylor Statten delivered an address to a representative gathering of the teachers of the Edmonton public and high schools. W. L. Richardson introduced the speaker, who is the national secretary of the boys' work and secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

During the course of his address the speaker made it clear that practically everyone, whether they have made a brilliant success or a dismal failure in life, makes the decision somewhere between the age of 14 and 24 years. This, therefore, is the time in a person's life when the most careful attention should be given to see that the right choice is made, that the right influences are set to work. He said that the touchstone of the whole matter was in the fourfold development of wisdom, physique, religious and social sides of life.

The speaker went on to tell his hearers that in the twentieth century the men of the most powerful influence are those who possess strong bodies and sound minds, and then maintain an unselfish, brotherly interest in their fellow men, striving at all times to get into harmony with the will of God. Such qualities, he stated, cannot be lacked on to full grown manhood, but it is essential that the foundations be laid during the plastic period of youth. The wise boy should seek to obtain a balance in the physical, mental, social and physical phases of life, he asserted.

That every Canadian boy may have some incentive to induce him to strive after this fourfold preparation, eight standard efficiency tests have been designed, said the speaker. There is also a ninth one, but it is not necessary to win this one before receiving a diploma, but it must be in the possession of every boy who attends the boys' work conference.

The winning of these efficiency bars and securing the diploma will form one of the most important events in the lives of the boys, said the speaker. Any Canadian boy who is ambitious to be the most successful man possible should strive for this achievement.

Mr. Statten then pointed out that it was through clean play, clean living and straight methods that the boys can make the most of their talents. He demonstrated that the great element in self-control is muscular control. He declared that it is the playground which is responsible for the development of the social side of man's personality.

Following this, the speaker outlined the great necessity of spiritual development, coupled with the best that is possible in the physical training, and that these qualities, combined with the all-round training given to the boys in the various tests, should make them fit for the highest positions and give them the foundation that will advance them to fame and fortune.

The speaker advocated that a local committee should be formed for the advancement of the Canadian efficiency test for boys in this part of the world, and that this should be initiated by professional and business men and women in the city.

DARING HOLD-UP OCCURS ON KINISTINO AVENUE

Alexander Klemento is Attacked and Robbed of $250—One Man Arrested.

One of the most daring hold-ups that has been committed in this city for some time, happened last night, about a quarter to ten, on Kinistino avenue, when Alexander Klemento was assaulted and robbed of $250.

Klemento was walking along the avenue, when suddenly two men jumped out of a dark doorway and knocked him down, and while one was keeping him from crying out, the other went through his pockets and abstracted the money.

As soon as his assailants left him, Klemento missed the alarm and Constable Kelly, who happened to be in the vicinity, at once gave chase and arrested a man.

The prisoner, when taken to the police station, gave his name as Khchz Kasper, but absolutely refused to state where he lived or where he was working, or give any other information.

No money was found on his person when searched by the police.

It appears that the men who committed this robbery must have been aware that Klemento had a large sum of money with him, and possibly knew him, as he had only a short time ago arrived in the city from working on the grade, and the methodical way in which the robbery was carried out, strengthens the theory that the miscreants knew the unfortunate man who was robbed.
